SOCCER SCANDAL SPREADS IN U.K.

LONDON (AP)—Two more soccer stars, accused of accepting bribes to throw league games, were suspended by their clubs today pending inquiries.

A third team, English Fourth Division Lincoln City, called in the police to investigate charges against one of its men.

These were the latest moves in the bribery scandal which has rocked British soccer in the last eight days. The Sunday newspaper The People has named nine players who, it was alleged, took part in fixing games to help in big betting coups. The players suspended were Dick Beattie of St. Mirren, and wing half Ron Howells.

TORONTO (CP)—Mr. Justice Dalton Wells of the Ontario Supreme Court rejected today a defence motion for a directed verdict of acquittal at the perjury trial of Ralph K. Farris, president of Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company.

Defence counsel Joseph Sedgwick immediately announced he will call no evidence for the defence. The 10-day hearings were adjourned until Wednesday for address to the jury.

Negroes, Whites Sit In Others' Parlors

CHICAGO (AP)—In 112 cities across the United States Sunday, thousands of Negro and white families took a quietly dramatic first step in improving race relations.

They sat down in each others' parlors and talked as they would to neighbors.

Over coffee and cake, they looked at pictures of each others' children.

Parents told of the bewildering tasks of teaching a child he must not hate, no matter what his playmates say.

The occasion was the first national home visit day which took place north and south in a list of U.S. cities that reads like a list of racial trouble spots: Birmingham, Ala.; Chicago, Baltimore, Cleveland, Little Rock, New York City.

Sponsors say close to 100,000 persons for the first time shared a living room with a member of another race.

Asia Coups 'Nourished' By U.S.

MOSCOW (AP)—The government newspaper Izvestia tonight indirectly blamed the United States for the right-wing attempt to overthrow the coalition government in Laos.

"The bacillus of military coups in Southeast Asia," said Izvestia, "find their nourishment in the policy of the United States."

The newspaper claimed the right-wing manoeuvres were made possible by the "foreign political atmosphere which is thickening over Laos as a result of the sharpening of the situation in Southeast Asia in general."

Izvestia added: "Laos is a neighbor of South Viet Nam and everything that is going on in the latter influence, both the domestic and foreign position of Laos, especially in view of the aggressive policy of the United States in South Viet Nam."

But nowhere did Izvestia say outright that the United States was directly backing the right-wing officers who attempted to overthrow the government Sunday.

Nuclear Output Slashed

NEW YORK (AP)—The United States and the Soviet Union announced today a reduction of nuclear explosive materials.

President Johnson disclosed the plans of the United States for the "substantial reduction" in the output of enriched uranium to be carried out over a four-year period.

At the same time, in Moscow, Premier Khrushchev made the announcement for the Soviet Union.

The announcement by the Tass news agency said Khrushchev stated:

"An opportunity for improving mutual understanding between our states on the necessity of avoiding a nuclear war had now arisen in connection with the question of the manufacture of fissionable materials for nuclear weapons."

Johnson said that together with other reductions, the new cut means "an over-all decrease in the production of plutonium by 20 per cent and of enriched uranium by 40 per cent."

REDUCE TENSION

"We reduce tension while maintaining all necessary power," the president stated.

Tass said Khrushchev's action was in line with U.S. and British decision in the same field.

The Soviet leader's statement noted Johnson and Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home had notified him they also would issue statements on "practical measures in the field of reducing the manufacture of fissionable materials for military purposes."

U.S. officials said there was no deal involved between the two countries in the joint action to reduce nuclear production, but a case of completely separate but parallel actions.

Compromise Set On Pension Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—A major increase in the provinces' share of personal income taxes, worth approximately $60,000,000 next year and double that in 1966, was announced today by Prime Minister Pearson in the Commons.

He also announced that the federal and Quebec governments have reached a compromise on their two retirement pension plans under which a uniform plan across Canada would provide pensions of up to $104 monthly.

The twin proposals were contained in a letter sent to the premiers last Thursday and tabled by Mr. Pearson in the House as he began a major statement on federal-provincial relations.

The pension proposals were submitted for the "comment" of the premiers. However, indications from several premiers are that the compromise will be widely accepted.

The changes proposed in federal government's Canada Pension Plan had been widely anticipated for several days. The surprise in the announcement was Mr. Pearson's statement that the central government is prepared to give the provinces a major increase in the share of personal income taxes.

TO MEET NEEDS
He said this is being done to meet their "priority" needs, especially for education.

At present, the federal government provides taxing room for the provinces through an abatement of 18 per cent of personal income taxes—a share scheduled to rise to 19 per cent in 1965 and 20 per cent in 1966.

Mr. Pearson's letter said the scale of abatements his government will propose to Parliament "is equivalent to an additional abatement of two per cent commencing in January, 1965, and a further two per cent commencing in January, 1966, in addition to the increases at those dates already provided in law."

In effect, this would mean the provinces will have available

B.C. Gains Millions In New Plan

Premier W. A. C. Bennett said today the new federal pension plan will unlock up to $500,000,000 worth of investment capital for B.C. over a period of years.

He hailed the compromise proposal announced today by Prime Minister Pearson.

"Now it looks as if the arrangement will be a success," he said.

"Instead of having two or three plans we'll have one plan."

Mr. Bennett said that the new federal provincial plan for sharing revenue from income tax will give B.C. more than $15,000,000 by the end of 1968.

The provinces will get an extra 2 per cent of the income tax revenue next year and another 2 per cent in 1966.

The premier said this will give B.C. at least an extra $3,000,000 next year and an additional $10,000,000 in 1968.

Gang Robs Grocery, Starts 3-Alarm Fire

VANCOUVER (CP)—A store-keeper has blamed a three-man armed gang for setting a fire that burned out his grocery and two other stores early today.

More than 50 firemen with rigs battled for four hours to halt the blaze threatening the south side of a block on Kingsway.

Crowds of spectators flocked to watch the spectacular three-alarm blaze, fed by a ruptured gas pipe that was not turned off for some time.

Benny Lee said the gang entered his market, beat him, and robbed him of $4,300. He claimed police did not believe him, although they told reporters they were investigating the matter.

The gang's leader, waving a revolver, told Lee he would be blown to pieces unless he moved back to Chinatown, Lee said.

Lee was accused of cut-price selling. His office was ransacked, his display cases smashed, and bleach was poured on the goods, he said.

The men forced him to the basement carrying his locked cash register. They tried unsuccessfully to smash it open.

He was punched when he tried to escape, Lee said.

Lee said they piled wooden boxes and crates on the floor and stairs, covered them in inflammable liquids and when he tried again to get out he was brought down. He next remembered waking up with the basement full of smoke and scrambling to the street.

LEADER of latest coup in Laos is Gen. Kouprasith Abhay. He led group of rightwing officers that overthrew the coalition regime of neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma, then asked Phouma to head new regime.

Laos Does Flip-Flop

By Reuters News Agency

Laotian neutralist Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma, ousted in a rightist army coup, flew to the royal capital of Luang Prabang today to see King Savang Vatthana.

Radio Vientiane said the king asked Souvanna to remain premier after the army group seized power in the administrative capital of Vientiane Sunday.

Souvanna was accompanied by his right-wing vice-premier and finance minister, Gen. Phoumi Nosavan.

The radio said the king also agreed to grant an audience to the coup leaders led by Gen. Kouprasith Abhay.

They were reported to have asked Souvanna to head a new government after first ousting him in the dawn coup.

Laotian sources in Bangkok, Thailand, said the new government would consist of rightists and neutralists. The pro-Communist faction of the former Souvanna coalition would be excluded.

Diplomatic sources in Saigon, South Viet Nam, confirmed Souvanna had been released and was considering a request to resume leadership of the nation.

Meanwhile, Laos was reported calm in the wake of the night coup. But the situation in the war-torn Southeast Asian kingdom remained confused.

The Laotian sources in Bangkok said if Souvanna refused to head a new government, Phoumi Nosavan, uncle of Gen. Kouprasith, was the most likely candidate for the prime ministership.

Phoumi, in the past strongly pro-Western, was prime minister of Laos several years ago.

Vientiane radio said the reasons for the coup were that Souvanna had failed to solve the economic, political and military problems of the country.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

With the gardening season upon us, there's a lot of talk about rich soil and the like.

But we doubt anyone can match the claim of Jim Hatter, director of the provincial fish and game branch. Sifting through a load of topsoil at his home on Ten Mile Point, Jim screened out a diamond ring. He hopes the proceeds will be enough to enable him to give up this gardening bit and spend the rest of the summer on the trout streams.

The soil will be used for a new flower bed, but we think Jim is missing a bet if he doesn't put in carats.

An Oregon couple stood on the Dallas Road waterfront looking across the Strait of Juan de Fuca to the Olympic Mountains.

"Still lots of snow up here," said the man. "Your mountains are loaded with it."

Switching on a strained diplomatic kind of grin, we replied:

"Those mountains are yours—not ours. They're in the state of Washington."

A box with a narrow slot in the top caught Alderman Mrs. Lily Wilson off guard last Saturday. Ready to draw the winning ticket for a door prize at a fashion show, she found her hand caught in the slot. Following a bit of a tug-of-war, the lid popped off and she drew the ticket with a cardboard bracelet on her wrist. Shortly after, when called upon to make the draw for a raffle, she looked at her hand, looked at the box top and then said, "I hope the hole is bigger this time."

A friend of ours who had some tea at Oak Bay Golf Club Sunday, following the Wakeham-Munn match, was delighted when the waitress submitted him a bill reading: "Two tee—60 cents."

I'm considering organizing a new pressure group to be called the Association for Banning of Incinerator Burning on Sunny Days.

ABIBSD—for short—would recruit confirmed Victorians who are fed to the teeth with having the fine spring air fouled by smouldering incinerators.

Sunday was such a day—perfect except for the wafting of pungent odors across backyard sunporches.

Why in blazes don't incinerator buffs burn the junk and get it over with? Why let it smoulder for hours?

When ABIBSD is fully organized, flying squads armed with portable water pumps will be sent into action.

It will strain relations with the neighbors but think of the satisfaction in once again breathing pure air!

Delegates to the Anglican Synod of the diocese of British Columbia were somewhat shaken by the headline in a mainland newspaper:

CLERGY TO MARRY DIVORCED WOMEN.

"I think that's overstating things a little," said Rev. Gordon Walker, vicar of St. David-by-the-Sea, Cordova Bay.

The synod actually recommended that Anglican clergymen should be permitted to marry divorced persons who have "good grounds" for being divorced.

Liverpool—the home of The Beatles—is now getting rock 'n' roll from its Salvation Army.

In a recorded broadcast from Liverpool, heard over a Victoria station today, the Salvationists were beating out religious choruses in rock 'n' roll time.

This stems from a tradition established by General William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, who once said:

"Why should the Devil have all the good tunes?"

The Salvationists of that day set religious lyrics to such popular songs as "You are my honey-suckle, I am the bee," and "Daisy, Daisy."

Pearson 'Scoring Goals' With Strategy of Offence

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Sunday night he believes his government, in its first year in office, has put Canada onto a new course in social security, economic, defence and foreign affairs policy.

"We are not playing a defensive game in this government," he said in a radio and television interview. "If you play a defensive game—and I am thinking of hockey now—you are not likely to get so many penalties, but you are certainly not going to score any goals."

"I think we are scoring some goals."

In social security, he said he would announce today in the Commons a "very important and very satisfactory" conclusion of talks with the provinces leading to a pension plan "the provisions of which will be applicable... to all Canadians," and meeting the increasing demands of the provinces for additional revenue "by giving them greater access to the personal income tax and other shared revenues."

"If it means a change in our pension plan... I am quite willing to make that change if it will bring about contributory pensions which will be applicable to all Canadians from coast to coast—the same kind of pension scheme, even if a province wishes to administer it within its own province."

"I think this is very important, and these have been very

Variety Show To Raise Cash For Memorial

A variety show to raise money for a memorial building at Saanichton Exhibition Grounds will be presented by the 4-H section of the Lower Vancouver Island Goat Breeders' Association, May 2.

Several Victoria artists will take part in the show to be held in Royal Oak High School auditorium at 8 p.m.

The 4-H section hopes to raise sufficient funds to build a barn to the memory of the late Edward Smart. Mr. Smart helped organize 4-H clubs on the Island.

Taking part in the benefit show will be Reg Stoffer, mimic ventriloquist; Alex Stewart, Mary Grant, Carl and Lottie Hemeon and the University Trio.

important discussions. They have been, I think, successful."

Mr. Pearson also made these points:

1. Canada has begun discussions with North Atlantic Treaty authorities revising this country's defence commitments and moving away from the role of nuclear strike attack.

2. He hopes to encourage six to 10 other countries to earmark and train special contingents to serve in United Nations peace-keeping forces.

3. He and his ministers are urging other countries to invest more in Canada, thus reducing the preponderance of American investment by comparison.

4. Quebec has equal rights with the other provinces to participate in or contract out of federal-provincial programs, but Quebec has a special position as "the homeland of... the French-speaking people of Canada," with rights guaranteed in the constitution.

Mr. Pearson was interviewed in a special CBC radio and television programme, Conversation with the Prime Minister, by CBC newsmen Norman DePoe and Gerard Pelletier, editor-in-chief of the Montreal French-language daily newspaper, La Presse. The 30-minute program was taped and recorded Saturday.

ADmits MISTAKES

Speaking of the 362 days since his government took office April 22, 1963, Mr. Pearson said "we made mistakes," but these resulted from trying to do too much too quickly.

"I am satisfied that we have made some very important achievements," he added.

Among them he counted reduction of unemployment "although this is nothing to be smug about," unparalleled levels of trade, introduction of a new defence policy, strengthened international relations, increased old age pensions, and negotiations with the provinces in working out a new concept of co-operative federalism.

DUTCH FAMILY SPLIT

Parents to Skip Royal Wedding

PARIS (AP)—Dutch Queen Juliana has washed her hands of the Rome wedding of her daughter Princess Irene to a long-hot pretender to the throne of Spain.

The family of the bridegroom-to-be, Prince Carlos of Bourbon-Parma, announced in Paris Sunday the couple will marry in a Roman Catholic ceremony in the Italian capital April 29.

Complaining that the Dutch royal family was told of the arrangements just before the newspapers got the news, the queen's secretary announced in The Hague that Juliana and Prince Bernhard would not attend.

A spokesman for the Bourbon-Parma family admitted that relations between the two families were severely strained and blamed the Dutch government.

BLAMES POLITICS

"We regret that certain political circles which have not succeeded in breaking the engagement have at least managed to lessen the good understanding between the two royal families which separates them for the time being, to their great regret," the spokesman said.

"There is a disagreement between the Queen of Holland and Princess Irene, but there has never been any disagreement between the mother and daughter. In Holland, the Crown, the Queen and the government are linked and the sovereign cannot go against the government without raising a grave problem."

The Dutch government is determined to prevent any linking of Queen Juliana to Prince Carlos' campaign for the Spanish throne.

The wedding will be held at the Basilica of St. Mary Major, a pontifical basilica.

"The nuptial benediction will be given in the name of his holiness Pope Paul VI... by his eminence Paul Cardinal Giobbe, specially delegated by the holy father for this occasion," the Paris announcement said.

RECEIVED BY POPE

Irene was converted to Catholicism last year, abandoning the traditional Protestant faith of the House of Orange. She and Prince Carlos were received at the Vatican earlier this month by Pope Paul.

Rumors circulated later that both Queen Juliana and the pontiff were distressed at the audience. The queen was said to have been hurt because Irene slipped off to Rome without her knowledge. Pope Paul understood that he was receiving the couple at the request of the Dutch royal family.

The site of the wedding has been a centre of contention. The Bourbon-Parma wanted a glittering ceremony in The Netherlands with a full-dress turnout of European royalty. The Dutch government refused to sanction anything that might indicate involvement in the question of royal succession in Spain.

Prince Carlo is the standard bearer of the Spanish Carlist movement, but Generalissimo Francisco Franco, who will make the decision, has shown no public sympathy for the Carlist claim. He generally is believed to favor giving the throne to Prince Juan Carlos, grandson of the late King Alfonso XIII and husband of Princess Sophie of Greece.

able a 21-per-cent share in 1963 and a 24-per-cent share in 1966. Officials indicated that the cost to the federal treasury of an added two-per-cent share of the tax field, on the basis of present yields, is approximately $60,000,000.

In his Commons statement, Mr. Pearson said the estimated increased rebate and higher equalization payments to the provinces will mean a reduction of $60,000,000 in federal revenues which would have to come from another source of taxation.

LISTS FIGURES

He said the extra revenue in the 1965-66 fiscal year by provinces will be: Newfoundland, $1,500,000; Prince Edward Island, $300,000; Nova Scotia, $2,400,000; New Brunswick, $2,000,000; Quebec, $17,600,000; Ontario, $21,200,000; Manitoba, $3,006,000; Saskatchewan, $3,000,000; Alberta, under $4,000,000; and British Columbia, about $5,000,000.

The further 2-per-cent rebate the following year would have a similar effect.

City Air Cadets Plan Open House For Friday Night

More than 362 Air Cadet squadrons are holding nationwide celebrations this week to mark the 23rd anniversary of the Air Cadet League of Canada.

In Victoria the celebrations opened with a parade to St. John Anglican Church Sunday morning.

On Friday an open house will be held at the RCAF building, 1212 Quadra Street, starting at 7 p.m. A science film will be shown there Saturday evening followed by a dance.

Main purpose of Air Cadet Week is to familiarize the public with the league's work in providing aviation and citizenship training for more than 28,000 cadets across Canada.

Since 1941 it is estimated 165,000 young Canadians have received air cadet training.

By the 1966-67 financial year, the federal government would have reduced taxes in favor of the provinces by more than $200,000,000 a year.

He said the reductions are being made "in the interest of the Canadian people as a whole." It was a way to serve the priority needs of the country, especially in education.

The prime minister said the tax-sharing arrangements made with the provinces in 1961 and scheduled to run until March, 1967, were regarded by the provinces as inadequate.

And there was not a proper degree of equalization among the provinces which was essential if all were to have the right and the ability to provide Canadian-standard services.

Doctor Strike Settled Naught

BRUSSELS (Reuters)—The ending of an 18-day strike by Belgium's 12,000 doctors and dentists Saturday leaves a number of fundamental problems to be settled, observers said here today.

The medical unions agreed to end the strike following the mediation of the rectors of the universities of Brussels, Louvain, Liege and Ghent, who gave their "moral guarantee" that agreement on the basic problems could be found.

The talks between the two sides, which first broke down April 1, will be resumed Wednesday.

One of the main causes of the strike against the Socialist-Christian coalition government's new health insurance law, known as "la loi Leburton" after Social Welfare Minister Edmond Leburton, was that there was no adequate consultation of the doctors by the government before the bill was presented to Parliament and passed quickly last December.

This was partly due to the fact that until recently the Belgian medical profession was badly organized and did not have a truly representative body which could state its case.

FORM TRADE UNION

But this situation changed rapidly in face of the threat of socialized medicine and the doctors now have a highly disciplined trade union.

The doctors opposed many of the new law's provisions on the grounds that it would lead to lowering of medical standards, restriction of the freedom of patients to choose their own doctors, a limitation on doctors to prescribe the medical treatment they considered necessary, a glut of patients and a drastic cut of doctors' incomes.

Belgium has had a compulsory health insurance service for persons below a certain income level since the end of the last war.

The service was not administered by the state but by semi-official Friendly Societies affiliated with the main Socialist and Christian labor unions.

Doctors were not forced to treat insured persons, nor did they have to charge the standard rates laid down by the Friendly Societies.

CHARGE LARGER FEES

It was therefore possible for doctors to charge fees in excess of the standard rates without giving the patient a receipt for the amount actually paid.

Doctors were able to earn extra income on which no tax was paid.

Under the "Leburton law," doctors treating health insurance patients must stick to a strict scale of fees, 75 per cent of which would be reimbursed to the patients by the Friendly Societies.

Widows, pensioners, orphans and disabled people would have the total cost of medical treatment reimbursed.

Doctors would be allowed only three afternoons a week—four in the case of specialists—to treat private, non-insured patients.

PENALIZE OBJECTORS

Insured patients treated by doctors who refused to sign the new health insurance conventions would be reimbursed only 50 per cent of their medical costs.

If fewer than 60 per cent of the doctors signed the conventions within the next 12 months the government had the right to fix maximum fees for all doctors and impose heavy penalties for overcharging.

At the same time doctors had to record all treatment and prescriptions in their patient's medical log book, leaving no room for tax evasion.

The doctors argued that free medical treatment for widows, orphans, pensioners and disabled people would lead to a swamping of their surgeries.

CALL IT BLACKMAIL

They said discrimination between the amount repaid to patients by the Friendly Societies according to whether they went to a doctor who had signed the new convention or one who had not, was tantamount to blackmail to make the doctors join the new health service.

But worst of all, according to the doctors, was "the violation of medical secrecy" involved by recording every treatment in a patient's log-book. The fact that this would also prevent tax evasion was never officially brought forward as an argument against the new law.

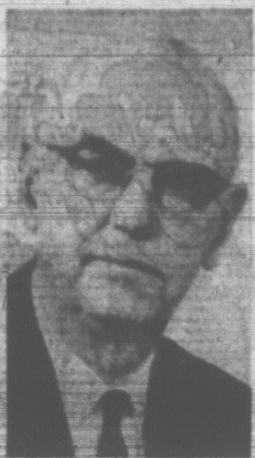

The doctors also objected that the new law would prevent them from prescribing the kind of treatment they considered necessary.

Last but not least the doctors opposed the rates of payments laid down by the government for consultations and home visits.

It was not yet clear how the differences will be settled when the negotiations resume Wednesday.

Castro Says 'Concessions' In Order

NEW YORK (AP)—Fidel Castro said in an interview broadcast Sunday night he believes both the United States and Cuba should make concessions toward restoring normal relations.

Castro said he once had felt that the late president Kennedy "was in the way of persuading himself of his mistakes about Cuba," and that some sort of change in U.S. policy had been in the making. He indicated Cuba is watching and waiting with regard to President Johnson's administration.

Castro's interview with Lisa Howard of ABC was recorded in Havana Feb. 12 and appeared as part of a documentary.

Castro said the Cubans "do not know Johnson's thinking (and) are observing what he is going to do about Cuba."

"You ask me what we are willing to concede," he added. "I think some concessions ought to be made by both parties, for the United States and for Cuba. I think a peace policy means mutual concessions, dignity."

Castro did not elaborate on what concessions he thought should be made by either side.

CIVIL RIGHTS GROUPS PLAN TRANSPORT SNARL

Mass Traffic Tie-Up Set for World's Fair

NEW YORK (AP)—Plans for civil rights demonstrations on opening day of the world's fair Wednesday now are reported to include a scheme to tie up most of the city's transportation system—subways, commuter trains and highway travel.

The "secret" plans, reported by newspapers today, could play havoc with travel in a city of 8,000,000 swelled by thousands of fair visitors.

President Johnson is scheduled to be one of those opening day visitors and may get caught in the transportation snarl, one civil rights leader said.

The tactics being considered include pulling emergency cords on fair-bound trains, jamming ticket lines — without buying tickets — at fair entrances, or picketing the gates to dissuade fair visitors from entering.

Queens district attorney Frank O'Connor prepared to seek a temporary restraining order today against any traffic snafu at the fairgrounds. He also invited demonstration leaders to meet with him today to discuss their highway — jam threat.

CONGRESS REACTS

As the reported demonstration plans grew — from an auto "stall-in" on access roads to the fair to sit-ins, lie-ins and the like on other major highways, bridges and in tunnels throughout the city — reverberations sounded in Congress.

Supporters and opponents of the civil rights bill in the Senate agreed that the public harassment could have an adverse effect on chances of passing the legislation.

Said Senator Hubert H. Humphrey (Dem.-Minn.), floor manager for the House-passed bill: "We'll be hearing from people who will be disgusted and outraged."

The New York City demonstrations, he said Sunday, "will react against the civil rights program and the legislation."

help the cause of civil rights," Humphrey added.

... If It Takes All Summer

MANY OF SIR ALEC DOUGLAS-HOME's cabinet ministers admit privately that the Conservative government would have had no chance of re-election in a June campaign. But some appear no more sure of success in the October contest toward which the country is now moving. Regarding criticism of the delay in calling an election, a number of Tories assume the position of "what have we got to lose?"

That is hardly the spirit in which to appeal to the British public for a new lease on life. But it is perhaps a logical one in view of the opinion polls — one of which recently gave Labor an 11½-point lead, compared with 10½ a week earlier — and of the recent London and county council voting, which revealed a similar sentiment.

Sir Alec at any rate can show little reason except political expediency for delaying an election until the final legal moment. There is little legislation of importance before Parliament except the controversial retail price fixing bill, and one comment on the summer-long wait asks what the Commons can do to fill in time until the voting takes place.

A certain flavor of me-too tactics has entered the political situation. Labor's promise to build 300,000 houses has been countered by the government's promise of 400,000 or more. Labor's program for central planning by direction has been met by an untraditional Conservative admission that planning is necessary, but that it should be by inducement.

In the two fields of major party disagreement — foreign policy and defence — the public appears dis-inclined to see suitable election issues.

Sir Alec's difficult problem, therefore, is to find, within the next few weeks, some major questions on which the public can be persuaded to agree that the Tory solution is best. Failing such a find, the indication is that the pro-Labor trend will continue — although without any pressing desire for further socialism — and the large uncommitted vote which decides all British elections may join in the time-for-a-change chorus.

A Labor victory would have important effects on Britain's international relations. The Socialists have been particularly concerned about the country's nuclear defence and are anxious to relinquish Britain's bomb. The alternative proposed is greater dependence on the United States deterrent but with more NATO influence on its employment.

The British open door towards the Common Market would be closed to perhaps less than a crack. And United States policy regarding Cuba, Red China and Viet Nam would no doubt find a cool wind off the Thames. On the American side, there would be an inevitable lessening of Washington's close relations with London if the latter were under Socialist control.

But however dismayed many persons may be by these possibilities, there seems to be a greater tendency to reconcile themselves to what they fear will happen than a disposition to take the optimistic view. In these circumstances, an unexpected victory by Sir Alec, even a slim one, would win him a very high personal rating both at home and abroad.

Rundown on the Runoff

THE METROPOLITAN HEALTH Board's decision to do an engineering study on the run-off of effluent from the Hartland Road garbage dump should give the answer to one important question concerning the dump — whether it is a potential cause of pollution of Prospect Lake.

Bacteria counts at the lake do not seem to indicate any difference in bacterial content of the water in dry or wet weather, which there could be if the dump is draining into the lake. However, the opinion has been expressed by the director of sanitary services of the health board that this may be because the ground between the dump and the lake has served as a filter. If this is so, the question of how long the ground will continue to filter the run-off water efficiently becomes of considerable interest.

No matter what the engineering study shows, however, it does not change the fact that the method employed to dispose of garbage at the Hartland Road dump leaves much to be desired from both the sanitary and aesthetic standpoints. The present operators of the dump are not prepared to invest money in new incineration equipment because their contract lapses in two more years. Meanwhile, daily burning by dumping fuel oil on the garbage is planned, a move which should be more sanitary than the previous method of stockpiling but which can hardly appeal to the residents in the area.

The approach of the municipalities to the problem seems to be an attempt to get by with a makeshift arrangement — possibly one that could endanger health — rather than come to grips with the fact that open dumps of this type have no place in a modern community.

Doctor Is In

THE BELGIAN DOCTORS' strike has been called off pending further negotiations on a settlement. Quite apart from the interests of the people in the country concerned, this news has been greeted with satisfaction everywhere. There is something contradictory and unsettling about a deliberate cessation of work by those whose calling it is to minister to the sick and the injured. The medical men have resorted to it only when, in their opinion, the whole profession has been endangered by legislation.

In the case of Belgium, which has had compulsory medical insurance for the last twenty years, a new law, effective last January 1, set doctors' fees at lower levels than formerly. The measure received strong support from Belgium's trade unions, representing most of the country's 4.5 million workers. When the government refused to amend the legislation, the doctors took the extreme step of calling a strike. Emergency services were provided in hospitals, but more recently the government called up doctors as military reserves. The government is, and will be, under heavy pressure from the unions, which appear to be trying to force upon a profession controls which they themselves would be quick to reject.

The medical protest centred around two chief points. There was resentment at the low fees scheduled, and fears that since a large portion of the population would now receive medical services at a very low or even no charge, the facilities would be overcrowded and hampered by persons who did not really require the attention of busy practitioners.

Happily the mobilization and the strike are now ended, after a tense 18 days. It is to be hoped that the easing of the situation will permit a calmer approach to the basic problem by both sides so that a reasonable solution may be found.

The Hand of Friendship

IN THE ALBERNI AREA, where neighborliness has taken on fresh meaning through the help given to those who suffered seismic wave damage, an earlier movement to extend the hand of friendship has been renewed.

This is the effort by socially conscious residents to provide a centre for Indian people, particularly the young, who come to Port Alberni from outlying reservations. Ill-prepared by their earlier environments to cope with urban living, a number of these natives have been unable to solve the problems that coming to the city has created. The good people of the up-Island town want to provide accommodation for them where the strangers can seek advice and be assured of human warmth.

In the most recent development toward this objective officers have been elected for the centre and property is being inspected to determine its suitability for the service.

Those British Columbians concerned over the plight of the Indians coming into town will applaud the Port Alberni project and might conceivably wish to give it something more than moral support. The centre could become an excellent example to be copied in larger cities where the distress of young Indians is severe.

"Yesterday all the talk was about Mahovich, Howe and Bower . . . Now all I hear is Central Forcupine, Bunker Hill Extension and Yukon . . .!"

FROM WASHINGTON

Denial of Justice Exacts Its Price

THE spotty Communist infiltration of the Negro civil rights movement, which has now been revealed, is merely one more sign that this agonizing problem is moving toward another crisis phase.

Alsop

Further more, this sign, though deeply disturbing, is really less meaningful than other signs of a more public character. In New York, for instance, extremists in the Congress on Racial Equality have alternately been threatening to sabotage the World's Fair and to sabotage the city water system.

On the other side of the ledger, a shockingly large number of Wisconsin voters were willing and even eager to cast their votes for the racist-mountain-bank Gov. George Wallace of Alabama. And in Kansas City, an ordinance forbidding discrimination in housing has just escaped defeat by such a paper-thin margin that one must conclude discrimination was actually favored by a majority of Kansas City's white people.

Unreason and Excess

The fact of the matter is that unreason and excess on one side are promoting and encouraging prejudice and unreason on the other side. The C.O.R.E. extremists, if they carry out their threats in New York, will only provoke more opposition to their demands. The Wisconsin people who voted for Governor Wallace only gave an argument to the civil rights movement's extremists and Communist infiltrators.

In these circumstances, a heavy new burden of responsibility is unavoidably cast on the leaders of both sides. The Negro leaders, in particular, now need more than the mere confidence in the justice of their cause, which they so rightly feel. They now need to be astute and practical in their aims and astute and cool-headed about their tactics.

The simplest illustration of the challenge facing the Negro leaders is the problem of the de facto segregation that prevails in many northern urban school systems. This is one of the prime targets of the C.O.R.E. extremists who are now planning to dramatize their indignation by sabotage.

Forcible Homogenization

As a practical matter, it is perfectly clear that the white majorities in the northern cities are not going to stand for forcible homogenization of their city school systems. Some are prejudiced. A great many more want their children to attend neighborhood schools. The white majorities will react with extreme hostility if their children are carted hither and yon, far from their own neighborhoods, in order to give all their city's schools a kind of standard, pepper and salt complexion.

This reaction has already begun in New York, where the Parents and Taxpayers Association has rapidly acquired a huge following. Among the Negro masses, meanwhile, there is little real desire for a homogenized school system, despite the deep and just resentment of segregation.

New York again offers the proof; for New York parents may opt to have their children carried to schools outside their own neighborhood, which they regard as better than neighborhood schools. In one Harlem school visited by this reporter, 1,300 children were eligible to go elsewhere, but only 13 had chosen to do so. The city-wide percentage is not much more impressive.

Finally, it must be noted that many children from deeply deprived neighborhoods cannot fairly be exposed to daily competition with more fortunate children. This has nothing whatever to do with race, of course. Students of the problem have simply discovered, at long last, the far from surprising fact that children brought up in conditions of extreme poverty tend to be behind in language and other skills. They therefore need special help at the outset, in order to compete on equal terms with other children.

Hence, the sensible solution of the northern urban school problem is nothing more nor less than a quite new kind of discrimination. Schools in deprived neighborhoods have twice as big a job to do as schools in happier neighborhoods, and they need twice as much money to do the job. Invest enough extra to give the children of poverty the means of escape from poverty and they will escape in the end.

Emotion Charged

If this were asked for, there would be no such resistance as the attack on neighborhood schools has encountered. But this is not being asked for, either, since the Negro leaders are in competition with one another; and this competition is too emotion-charged to allow much room for down-to-earth practicality.

That also makes it all the more urgent for the white majority to be both practical and generous. For if the Negro minority is not admitted to full membership in the larger American society, and given all the help, too, that the minority needs to enjoy that membership, this country will surely find itself with what amounts to a permanent, endemic anti-colonial war on its hands. Those who deny justice for too long must always pay in the end.

NEW NEEDS OF UNITED NATIONS

The Example Furnished by Cyprus

ASSISTANT Secretary Harlan Cleveland has spoken with commendable frankness in admitting that the United Nations was able to send troops to Cyprus just in time to prevent a dangerous situation from getting completely out of control. The primary credit should go to Great Britain which had the initial shock of the emergency and then supplied half the manpower for the international force. Additional credit belongs to smaller countries like Canada and Holland and the Nordic nations for making troops available for emergency duty.

Cleveland

But surely Mr. Cleveland is right when he argues that there is something utterly creditable and frightening in having the United Nations "plead and scrounge and cajole to help tack together a minimal peace-keeping force in the nick of time." The world now spends 120 billion a year on defence and keeps 20 million men under arms. Yet it finds it almost an impossibly difficult task to provide a few thousand men to protect the peace in critical areas. It is impossible to justify such a strange distribution of resources in terms of logic or self-interest.

We can never be sure when a remote quarrel involving minor powers may suddenly grow into a crisis which engages the interests of the great powers and threatens the peace of the world. Unless mankind is blind to its instinct for self-preservation, it must give far more importance than at any time in the past to the organization of the peace-keeping machinery of the United Nations.

Search Souls

That is why Mr. Cleveland, speaking for the United States government, has appealed to all nations, large and small, to "search their souls, re-examine their attitudes, and reassess their own national interests" to make sure that the United Nations never lacks men or money to act in the interests of peace. In a rational world community it should be easy to make service with the United Nations not a burden but an honor. To achieve this end Mr. Cleveland appealed for many more contingents from a variety of nations and from every continent. These contingents would always be on the alert for prompt assignment in an emergency. Thus, once a peace-keeping mission had been authorized, it should be possible to have the necessary troops in the area of danger in a matter of days instead of letting critical weeks slip by without action.

In addition, Mr. Cleveland has proposed that the United Nations should have a constant panel of mediators and peace-makers drawn from the most distinguished citizens of the international community. These men and women could act as fact-finders or observers or mediators or arbitrators in disputes that disturb the security of nations. The difficulty of finding an appropriate mediator for Cyprus emphasizes the practical urgency of this problem. Although Mr. Cleveland was silent on this point, it seems clear that such a panel could be very useful in the gathering quarrel between Israel and Arab states, if only to establish the true facts in the controversy over the division of water.

Unhelpful Concept

Mr. Cleveland said repeated experience since the Korean War has shown that the original concept of a standing United Nations army was superficial and unhelpful. In each emergency the response of the United Nations has been moulded by the actual conditions which faced it and not by any general theory. The international force in every instance has differed in its weapons, in its political sponsorship, in its racial composition, and in its financial arrangements.

The United Nations has taken part in peace-keeping operations in Palestine, Kashmir, Indonesia, Korea, Trieste, Suez, Lebanon, Laos, The Congo, West New Guinea, Yemen and Cyprus. In the last 17 years the United Nations has acted four times in the Middle East, twice in southern Europe, twice in southeast Asia, and once each in the Far East, the western Pacific, Africa, and now the Mediterranean area. Moreover, the Security Council has had on its agenda thirteen major controversies in the western hemisphere, although action in each case was left to the Organization of American States. This record proves that no part of the world community is exempt from danger. It also establishes the necessity of giving the United Nations the power to deal with these dangers to peace swiftly and effectively.

Far too many of us still think of the United Nations as a debating forum instead of as an agency with power to keep the peace. There can be no doubt that the future of the United Nations will depend on its peace-keeping operations. Mr. Cleveland was a pioneer in foreseeing this development, and one hopes he will continue his memorable appeals to the world community to strengthen the United Nations.

Vote 'Yes'

People in Oak Bay must consider a few facts which those who have been planning the recreation centre for many years have had to take into consideration and because of these facts have now placed the need of such a centre before the taxpayers.

First of all there is a definite need for this type of facility in Oak Bay. Our children and our taxpayers have used the centres built by Victoria and Esquimalt freely but are now finding that to get space in these areas they are having to get up at 6:00 a.m. in the morning or that their play time is gradually being curtailed because of overcrowding. Isn't it time we did something about this?

It costs the taxpayers $2,500 to send a boy to Brunnen Lake for one year and over $3,000 to send a girl to Willingdon. This is much more expensive than keeping a young boy or girl busy and happy in a centre where he or she may grow into a healthy and good citizen. Which do you want: a destructive force in your community or a healthy, happy group working to better their community?

It costs exactly 45 cents a week in taxes to create enjoyment for all ages. Times have changed. There are no back lots for children to play on. There are very few streets that are safe for children to ride bikes. The successful Senior Citizen club in Oak Bay proves the need of a place for these wonderful people to meet and enjoy each other's company. For 45 cents a week this can happen. Surely that is not too much to ask. We pay more than that on bus fare to attend areas in other municipalities that give us this same enjoyment.

Let us think this out clearly—then vote Yes on April 25.

M. I. CRAIG.

'Cordwood Limited'

As Victoria is one of British Columbia's oldest cities, and particularly as our economy relies so heavily on the tourist industry, people are becoming more and more conscious of the history of our community. Evidence of this can be found in the 1958 and 1962 centennial pageants and celebrations, the city's program of restoring Bastion Square, and the recent creation of the Greater Victoria Historic Building Trust. Also, let us consider the many books that have been written, after many hours of research, to provide us with a permanent record of how our community has developed the way we see it today.

Transportation played a very important part in the growth of this area, and at the present time our association is gathering together all the information we can on the Victoria and Sidney Railroad, which operated between the years 1894 and 1919. We are in the process of compiling a detailed account of this phase of our history and we are most anxious to hear from any readers who could lend or donate photographs, provide us with information on locomotives and rolling stock, and relate any human interest stories relative to its operation, employees and passengers.

Oak Bay Ghosts

In a recent report the Oak Bay ghosts are said to belong to a murder-suicide there a quarter century ago.

It seems that this spiritual phenomenon is part of a pattern of that time when Greater Victoria held a sort of world record for unsolved murders. I vaguely remember three of 11.

I resolved to return here at the end of the war safe in the knowledge that if I ever had the urge to kill, Victoria was the place where I stood a good chance to go scot-free. (How times have changed.)

If, then, you buy a house and find a cupboard of skeletons, don't worry, just send for the archbishop and he can lay their disturbed spirits "deader than a door nail" in a short service specially designed for the job. Maybe it could be done on the cliffs of Oak Bay, or should we rather preserve this latest tourist attraction?

Mr. Staverman, in Friday's Times, gives us his personal experience as to how he regained his health, by thoroughly chewing his food. No doubt it is a good rule to follow, yet there are those who have lived to a good old age by following other rules: as for example the very old gentleman recently reported in your paper who, when asked the secret of his longevity, thought that it may have been because he smoked too much all his life. Which indicates that there are other causes of which he knew nothing.

INSIDE POLITICS

With Douglas Fisher, M.P.

Notes on some Cabinet ministers:

Harry Hays, the bouncy minister of agriculture from Calgary, has been the most effective Cabinet member this first year of the Pearson government in downgrading the ministry in the House of Commons. He may have arrested the slide. His faults were absenteeism, a primitive, rapid-fire, Prairie basic English, and a glaring distaste for the chamber and its modes.

During the long hours and days on supplementary estimates he was questioned and belabored as much as any other minister. For the first time it seemed he had a change of pace: a flat, informative, direct style of reply. He acknowledges now that his source of facts and policy is the officialdom of the department. He was able to give at least a hint that he has a wry humor about his own shortcomings. He showed he could master detail and purvey it in simple explanations. The Hansard record of his description, under fire, of the operations of the agricultural subsidies is lucid.

Despite the transfer of some of normal responsibilities of the ministry (to Mitchell Sharp and Maurice Sauve) one complicated, contentious matter must be handled by Mr. Hays this session in the House and before a committee. This is the legislation on railway branch lines abandoned on the Prairies.

Right-Winger

Bob Thompson of Social Credit predicted that Mr. Hays was much more able than most of us thought. He says it took Hays six months to get the hang of the mayor's office in Calgary. Until he did, he seemed a misfit; afterwards, he doused all opposition and criticism.

Jack Pickersgill, last session's House leader, has been blamed by both the press and some of his colleagues for not bothering to shepherd his successor, Guy Favreau, during the snarls of the past weeks. Both this and the fact that the government had to call on him to give some semblance of bite and retort to Mr. Diefenbaker's partisan romps is a tribute to Mr. Pickersgill's value to the Liberals.

In my opinion, there were two reasons for the Pickersgill semi-withdrawal and neither was related to Favreau's exposure as a babe in the woods. Firstly, he has been intent on making a reputation as a top administrator in the complex department of transport. Secondly, he had been isolated, if not rebuffed, by the smaller inner circle of power around the prime minister. There is an antagonism towards him in the prime minister's office, based on the feeling that he is a right-winger and too clever by far at the old, continuing Liberal party liberalism.

His problems in the House added to the fast pace of the Quebec party towards dissociation from the federal party (for which he emerged last session as the reigning French lieutenant in succession to Lionel Chevrier) has curbed, if not ended the Favreau boom as crown prince. As a broad generalization, Mr. Favreau has yet to appreciate the psychology of politician. His mastery of detail overcomes both his persuasive ability with English and his warmth. His intellect and industry are too impressive for anyone to say definitely that he has been or will be a failure.

Inverted Modesty

Another minister with an aggravating problem is Mitchell Sharp, minister of trade and commerce. Last week I was able to watch his mesmerizing effect on businessmen. He is so given to understatement that one might suspect him of an inverted modesty, bordering on the immodest. He is an excellent listener with a negotiator's ability to funnel discussion into a practical framework, unconfused by emotion or the black and white of: is it or is it not government policy? He identifies himself with the late C. D. Howe and the Howe tradition of direct government trust and confidence in the Canadian business community. This strength is his weakness in party terms during these months of jelling in the party's form. He is labelled a right-winger.

This matter of whether a man is "left" or "right" is becoming more and more important to the Liberals as Mr. Pearson shows himself more and more a cautious man of the dead-centre. I've heard more than one Liberal MP remark that it will be a disaster if Mr. Sharp captures the position as No. 1 man in the Cabinet since he is uncommitted, to even suspicious of, any program of radical change. A lingering belief that Walter Gordon remains as the hope of the Liberal radicals explains why the latter is "left" and Sharp is "right" in most categorizing inside and beyond the party.

Power Struggle

Mr. Sharp considers the label as unfair. He has the Dafoe-Winnipeg Free Press attitude to trade and a large international role for Canada. He believes that this keeps him on the radical side. As it is working out, his projection of competence and the undoubted ambition he reveals in his torrid schedule of outside speaking engagements is building up his reputation. In addition to Paul Martin, Mr. Sharp, as well as Walter Gordon and Paul Hellyer, can be put on the list of those who are prepared to drive for the succession to the party leadership. The fact that one never hears serious talk now about the Liberal tradition of alternating English and French leaders is worth noting. A power struggle is not defined but it is shaping up.

ALLIES AWAIT SIGNS OF LEADERSHIP

Johnson Ducking Foreign Policy 'Test'

By ENDRE MARTON

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson, in confidential reports many European embassies sent to their capitals, got an A in domestic affairs. But grading was deferred in his other major, foreign policy.

A number of Western diplomats, who cannot be quoted, speak with surprising frankness about these reports. Conversations with them reveal that the envoys have amazingly similar views about the Johnson administration.

The explanation for the flattering high mark in domestic affairs is simple. Johnson, the diplomats are saying, has achieved in a remarkably short time good working harmony with Congress, something which they say was on a sadly low level during the last period of the Kennedy administration.

In foreign affairs, however, grading had to be postponed because of what diplomats delicately described as Johnson's reserved attitude on most foreign policy questions which interest European allies of the U.S.

The envoys are, of course, aware that 1964 is an election year and that customarily domestic problems push foreign policy headaches into the background. It is also true, they concede, that the lull in East-West relations relieved the chief executive from making dramatic decisions.

'MUST GIVE GUIDANCE'

But, one French-speaking diplomat spoke of noblesse oblige—in this case meaning that as the Western world's leader, the United States, election year or not, must continue to give guidance to the West.

There is an almost puzzling similarity among Western diplomats, the French of course excluded, mildly criticizing the administration's position on Charles de Gaulle. The words they use range from exaggeration to defeatism. De Gaulle is not Europe, the diplomats' reasoning goes, and they feel the current Washington thinking grossly overrates the general's power to bring European integration to a halt or to create some kind of a third force.

Washington, it is felt, is apt to forget that de Gaulle brought to France, and through France to Europe, something which was badly needed: Stability.

It is highly questionable, some of the diplomats maintain, that Europe would be more advanced on the road toward political integration if there was no de Gaulle. Integration is viewed as a most praiseworthy goal, but an almost Utopian one, especially under present conditions when Europe is pressed neither politically nor economically to hurry toward it.

SURE DEATH TO CLOVER & CHICKY' EED

Here's a worksaving way to get a more beautiful lawn... spray on Later's Clover and Chickweed Killer. It won't harm grass, but it makes short work of clover, chickweed and plantains. Goes a long way, too. 4 tablespoons mixed with a gallon of water covers 500 sq. ft. of lawn. Specify Later's by name and give your lawn the best care available.

Guard Tender Plants From Frost

The light touches of frost recently in many areas of the Saanich Peninsula and lower Vancouver Island have been a warning to home gardeners to avoid rushing their young bedding plants into the open.

The hardening-off process, mentioned so frequently in this column during early spring, is essential to avoid damage to plants raised in a greenhouse, porch or a covered coldframe.

Among the annual bedding plants are some classed as hardy, others as half-hardy, and quite a few which are definitely tender.

The hardy ones are those which can first be gradually exposed to outdoor conditions. These include snapdragons, carnations, pansies, stocks. After a few cool nights outdoors, they will not be damaged by light frosts.

A group of half-hardy annuals might include such things as petunias, sweet alysum, lobelia and schizanthus. These need to be longer exposed to cool nights before they can withstand a light frost.

But plants which are classed as tender annuals need glass protection from even one degree of frost in the spring.

At the other end of the growing season the mature plants will often withstand several degrees of frost unharmed. That is why our gardens show little sign of damage after a light frost or two in early fall.

In spring, however, tender annuals such as the red salvia, tagetes, African marigolds, zinnias and the dwarf bedding dahlies grown from seed all must be given adequate protection when frost threatens.

Don't rush these out before May gives us reasonable assurance the temperature will not drop to freezing across sunrise.

How much of a sportscar should a family car be?

About as much as the Volkswagen 1500 TS, if you want your driving to be enjoyable.

Some cars look like sportscars, but they don't act like sportscars. The VW 1500 TS does. Independent torsion bar suspension on all four wheels and low centre of gravity help it hold firmly to any kind of road.

Like a sportscar should. It has a floor-mounted stick with 4 synchromesh gears to shift. Which gives you the satisfying feeling of being in complete control in all driving conditions.

Like you should in a sportscar. And this year we added more horsepower and a second carburetor.

Now you can accelerate to 50 mph in just 12 seconds.

Yet, this more powerful engine is so efficient you can expect around 35 miles to a gallon of gas. So it saves you money.

Like a family car should. In front adjustable bucket seats for you and your wife. In back: room for 3 more adults for the equivalent in children. So it's comfortable for long trips. As a family car should be. That's one reason we called it Touring Sport (TS).

Track and Traffic Magazine recognized the TS for "its engineering superiority, quality of construction, aesthetics, total comfort, safety and performance". They've just given it their Golden Wheel Award.

You might say the Volkswagen 1500 TS got what's coming to it, because it's got so much going for it.

CHINESE BOOST FLOOD FUND

Victoria (Chinatown) Lions Club Saturday evening presented $200 to president Douglas Willing of Alberni Valley Lions as a contribution to the Alberni Valley and West Coast Disaster Fund.

Presentation was made at a social evening at the Empress Hotel attended by more than 150 Lions and their wives representing clubs on Vancouver Island, Vancouver and Port Angeles.

Another disaster fund cheque for $500 was presented to the Alberni Club from the Lions International Association of Canada.

Friendship Bazaar Saturday

DUNCAN—Eight Duncan women's organizations will participate in the third annual Cowichan friendship bazaar in the Eagles Hall in the Whittemore Building, Station Street, on Saturday.

Stalls will feature Indian, Canadian, West Indies and Polynesian, Dutch and Polynesian themes.

There will be displays of fancy work, embroidery, crocheting and wool quilt.

Mrs. Gil MacDonald is chairman of the bazaar.

Two Fined $100

LADYSMITH—Two men and a juvenile pleaded guilty in police court Friday to theft under $50.

Accused were Richard Zehanz, Everett Tinsley and a youth, all of Ladysmith.

The trio stole a drum of gasoline from a construction site at Cassidy, police said.

The two men were fined $100 each, and the juvenile was fined $25 and placed on one year's probation.

NANAIMO—A Victoria man and his North Vancouver woman passenger are in serious condition today after a three-car crash south of here Sunday.

John Sykes, whose address is not known, was forced off the road by two other cars, one of them driven by Mrs. Florence Van der Haeghe, 4095 Quadra, Victoria.

Mrs. H. McGinnon, of North Vancouver, is also in serious condition in Nanaimo Regional Hospital today.

Her husband and Mrs. Sykes—also in the car when it flipped and rolled—are in fair condition in hospital.

PULLED OUT

Police said the accident was caused when a car driven by Mrs. Van der Haeghe pulled out to pass a car driven by William Heathcote, of Nanaimo.

Mr. Heathcote pulled out to pass the Sykes car at the same time.

He forced Mrs. Van der Haeghe's car to the opposite gravel shoulder, where it spun out of control, then shot back across the highway in front of the Sykes car, forcing it off the road.

ENDED IN FIELD

Her car ended up in a field. Mrs. Van der Haeghe suffered only minor injuries.

Mr. Heathcote was not injured.

The Sykes car and Van der Haeghe car were both extensively damaged, said RCMP. There was no damage to the Heathcote car.

FORMER DUNCAN and North Vancouver student, Dorothy Gill Thompson, 21, of 2727 Asquith, Victoria, will study European history at Stanford University. She is one of 24 winners of Canada Council scholarships in the humanities and social sciences worth an average $1,500 each. Miss Thompson, Duncan-born, will work this summer in the National Archives, Ottawa, after graduating in history and French at UBC.

Car Cavalcade To Bamfield Set for May 24

BAMFIELD—A cavalcade by the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island will visit here May 24 in a campaign to draw attention to the area's recreational potential.

The party will include a total of 250 members in 50 cars.

The chambers' main objective is to view the Cape Beale peninsula, west of Bamfield and facing the open Pacific and Barkley Sound.

The chambers want the B.C. government to establish the peninsula as a provincial park.

The proposed park involves more than 12 square miles, and takes in two lakes, several beaches and miles of waterfront.

It would be the first provincial marine park of any size and would open to the public a little-known wild and beautiful coast.

142 MILES

R. Bruce Scott, an official of the Bamfield Chamber, said the distance from Victoria to Cape Beale via the Cowichan-Nitinat Lakes is 142 miles against 180 miles via Port Alberni.

"The park would be within easy reach of South Vancouver Island," he said.

The B.C. parks branch has already reserved several large blocks of land in the Cape Beale peninsula, but has not yet been able to set the entire area aside for park purposes.

THREE RESERVES

Three Indian reserves are located in the area which would mean dealing with the federal Indian affairs branch for their acquisition.

'EXODUS' LIBEL HEARING. OPENS

Bizarre Evidence Heard

By JOSEPH MacSWEENE
LONDON (CP) — A Jewish woman told a hushed high court today how she was treated in an "electrical machine" while, aged 18, she was a prisoner at the Nazi Auschwitz concentration camp in 1943.

The woman also told of screaming with pain on receiving an injection before an operation under a "big lamp" in which she could see the reflections of those working on her.

It was a dramatic moment at the hearing in which Polish-born Dr. Wladyslaw Alexander Dering, once an Auschwitz prisoner and now a London practitioner, is suing American author Leon Uris for libel in a passage of the book Exodus published in 1959.

The London publishers of the book, William Kimber and Company Limited, also are being sued for damages in connection with the passage, which states:

"Here in block X (at Auschwitz), Dr. Wirths used women as guinea pigs and Dr. Schumann sterilized by castration and x-ray and Claiberg removed ovaries and Dr. Dehring performed 17,000 'experiments' in surgery without anaesthetics."

DOCTOR TESTIFIES
Dering, 61, testified Thursday that while a prisoner at Auschwitz he was associated with 18,000 operations, mostly minor, and he denied performing experimental surgery for sterilization. Though he had performed operations, they were on prisoners who had been sentenced by German courts to be sterilized or castrated. As a prisoner he had to do what he was told.

Dr. Joseph Mercyk, another Polish-born Auschwitz prisoner who lives in Chicago, said it was "unthinkable" to refuse an order at the concentration camp. The guards could kill a prisoner on the spot for such an offense.

Uris and the Kimber Company admit that the paragraph in question is defamatory of Dering — despite the different spelling of names—but contend it is true in substance and in fact, subject to certain qualifications. The defendants contended he had performed 130 operations in improper conditions, using a spinal anaesthetic without doing it in the proper way.

Church Used As Quebec 'Handmaiden'

MONTREAL (CP) — Walter O'Hearn, managing editor of the Montreal Star, says some Quebec clergy have used the Roman Catholic Church as the handmaiden of nationalism.

"For two generations, among the ultras at least, religion has been the handmaiden of racism," Mr. O'Hearn said Saturday. He participated in a panel discussion on bilingualism and biculturalism at a one-day seminar of the Montreal chapter of the National Secretaries' Association.

Speaking as a Roman Catholic, Mr. O'Hearn said "I am enraged when my church is used as the handmaiden of any nationalism—Polish, Irish or French-Canadian."

Mr. O'Hearn said he fears the poisonous effects such use of religion could have on what he described as the "new clan" among Quebec youth. He warned that Roman Catholicism "is not for the use of nationalism."

"Many of the new elite are anti-clerical, or even agnostic, although their cultural choice is clearly French," he said.

In the past some of the leaders and inspirers of French-Canadian nationalism in Quebec's history were men "able to operate behind clerical immunity."

CLC Chief Pleads for Canada Unity

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian trade union movement was urged today to rally behind a fight to preserve Canada as a united country against the separatist ideas of "petty politicians and narrow-minded fanatics."

The call came from Claude Jodoin, Montreal-born president of the 1,100,000-member Canadian Labor Congress, in the keynote speech at the opening session of the CLC's week-long policy convention here.

"I don't intend to let any petty politicians or narrow-minded fanatics sabotage the future that is Canada's," he declared.

"It is time for those of us who believe in a strong and united Canada to speak out. It is typical of some destructive minorities that they talk with loud voices. We must not let ourselves be fooled by this."

"It is time to put these narrow-minded pursuers of selfish objectives in their place. It is time to speak and act as citizens of a vast and beautiful country and to show each other the deepest respect."

A major portion of Mr. Jodoin's speech was devoted to the need for national unity, but he also dealt with the present economic situation, the challenge of industrial change, social and labor legislation and international affairs.

HAMMER OUT POLICY

About 1,600 delegates from some 91 international and 13 national unions in Canada are attending the so-called "parliament of labor" at which trade unionists hammer out policy for the next two years on the economic, legislative and social fronts.

Mr. Jodoin said a sense of national unity can never be achieved until the "great disparities" between different regions are reduced. Unemployment was still high—and still concentrated in some areas.

Troops Coming Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — Johnson administration officials expect the last large group of Soviet troops in Cuba to be withdrawn within the next two or three weeks. The number due to leave is authoritatively estimated at about 3,000 officers and men.

SEAGULLS DON'T CARE WHAT COLOR THEY ARE

SEATTLE (AP)—Lawyer Ronald MacIsaac, of Nainme, as he said later, didn't have nerve enough to admit that he had seen what he thought he had seen. A bluish-pink seagull?

Oh yes, said Mrs. Zealla Schultz of Seattle. Red ones and yellow ones, too. Fishermen lure them near their boats and shoot them with spray paint.

Mrs. Schultz, an Audubon Society member who specializes in gulls, offered the explanation after a number of Canadians reported seeing the colorful birds.

"Fishermen think anything that eats fish is their enemy," she said. "It is an offense to kill gulls so the fishermen hope this way they will get the birds killed second-hand."

She said the fishermen think that a normal gull, seeing a pink or yellow one, will kill it. It's a mistaken idea, she added—no color line among seagulls.

300 Negroes Held In Rhodesian Riot

SALISBURY (Reuters) — A Negro died in hospital during the night after being shot by police as he stoned a bus at Bulawayo, about 270 miles from this Southern Rhodesian capital, police reported today.

A police spokesman said another man who was shot ran away.

Police opened fire when Negroes refused to stop throwing stones at the bus, which was travelling through a Negro township outside the city.

The spokesman said there were more incidents of intimidation in Salisbury's Negro township this morning as African groups tried to force people to stay away from work.

Sunday was the fourth day of disturbances since the all-white government ordered the restriction of Negro leader Joshua Nkomo and three leading members of his People's Caretaker Council to a remote camp near the Mozambique border.

DRUNKS STAR AT STRATFORD-ON-GORE, VANCOUVER

Experimental Drama on Skid Road

... real-life cast

VANCOUVER (CP) — The drama at Stratford-on-Gore is real, and the troupe belongs to an exclusive club.

The scene is the five-storey, 200-room Stratford Hotel on Gore Avenue in the heart of Vancouver's skid road. The "company of players" is drawn from the worst skid road drunks.

Lou Libby, a former Moose Jaw, Sask., businessman who owns the hotel, encounters the real-life drama every day in a unique experiment which city welfare authorities hope will result in food and a place to sleep for the chronic drunks.

The 70 drunks at the hotel each are allocated $66 monthly in assistance by the welfare department. In the past most of them drank their way through this in as little as 48 hours, then faced month-long starvation unless they stole or begged on the streets.

Under the experiment devised by welfare officials, Libby receives all the welfare cheques, totalling about $4,600, and deducts $30 a month in room rent for each tenant.

He does out the remaining $36, often in meal tickets rather than cash, to keep the drunks from squandering it on liquor, then shaving lotion and finally, hair tonic and canned heat (wood alcohol).

ALCOHOL FIRST

Libby does not fool himself. "We can't stop them from sneaking canned heat or other stuff up to their rooms."

Sometimes the experiment works and a man "dries up" and obtains a job. Sometimes, as in the case of Michael Platko, 39, it doesn't.

Platko, an alcoholic on welfare almost half his life, went on a canned heat binge in the hotel. He was found dead in his room the next morning.

But the times the plan does work make it worthwhile for Libby. "If I didn't think this plan was doing some good I'd go crazy."

The worst drunks are given meal tickets only, no cash. If they improve, they are given $1.25 a day, and finally a lump sum of $9 a week, in the morning lineup before a wicket at Libby's office.

"The Stratford plan has given us a chance to control the way these men spend the public's money," says one social worker. "It has also given the men a chance to control themselves."

The pilot, Lee Roggenkamp, 26, of Camas, had just circled his home—some six miles north of Camas. A neighbor boy coming out of Sunday school looked up and saw a wing dip, the wing stay down and the plane disappear behind a hill. Then he heard a thud. The boy, Walter Steeves, ran to where he could see the wreckage, then called the sheriff's office.

Threat on Queen

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Sun reported receipt Saturday of a letter threatening Queen Elizabeth with death if she visits Quebec in October. Postmarked in Scarborough, Ont., it was signed by the Quebec Liberation Front and resembled a letter received Friday by the Free Press in London, Ont.

The plane hit only a few hundred yards from the Roggenkamp home but hidden from it by a hill. Mrs. Roggenkamp was home but did not see it. When told of the crash she became hysterical and was taken to hospital at nearby Vancouver, Wash., just across the Columbia River from Portland, Ore.

The plane was demolished as it struck in a brushy area on the south slope of Mt. Livingston. Coroner Ken Ellerton said all six occupants were killed outright.

He identified the passengers as two daughters of the pilot, Robin, 4, and Rhonda, 8; his two sons, Randall, 7, and Ryan, 2; and a neighbor girl, Jean Marie Vendenbergh, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Vendenbergh.

Merchants On Strike In Damascus

DAMASCUS (AP)—The great bazaars of Damascus went on strike Sunday to protest against socialism in Syria and to support an armed rebellion in the city of Hama.

Hundreds of Syrian merchants, disgruntled over business restrictions and repeated declarations by the Baath Socialist regime that Syria would become a peoples' democratic socialist state, rang down iron shutters on their shops.

The capital was quiet and the entire business sections—where famed brocades of Damascus and oriental jewelry glow richly from countless windows—were deserted.

Members of the Moslem brotherhood urged small shopkeepers to close in protest against army action in Hama, 130 miles north of here. Security forces in Hama since Wednesday have been trying to quell insurrection led by the Moslem brotherhood and what the government called "reactionaries and feudalists" fighting against land reform and socialist measures.

Confederation Concept 'Sound'

MONTREAL (CP)—E. Davie Fulton, leader of the B.C. Progressive Conservative Party, said today that if Canadians abandon the concept of confederation then "we abandon ourselves, all of us, to darkness, defeat and despair."

"The concept is sound and it gives us a foundation to build and ideals to strive for," he said in a speech to the Canadian Club in which he dealt mainly with relationships between French and English-speaking Canadians.

Mr. Fulton, justice minister in the former Progressive Conservative government, said the terms of confederation can be changed to suit both Quebec and English-speaking Canada.

"It is evident that after a century of life alterations must be made."

He said the division of tax fields between the federal and provincial governments is not a problem faced only by Quebec, but by all the provinces.

Mr. Fulton stuck up for provincial rights.

He said the power of the federal government should never be asserted in a way that it would disable or restrict the provincial governments from discharging their responsibilities in the fields reserved to them.

He placed some of the blame on the lack of understanding between French and English-speaking Canadians in business and government.

"We English-Canadians in government and business have not troubled ourselves as much as we should have to make sure that there is full participation and fair representation by French-Canadians in running the affairs of the union," he said.

'SIR, WOULD YOU PLEASE HELP ME?'

Balloon 'Snatches' Boy

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Balloontist William Berry had just reached an altitude of 3,000 feet when he was startled by a voice crying out, "Sir, would you please help me?"

Berry leaned over the side of his gondola and was even more startled to see 11-year-old Danny Nowell dangling from a rope 10 feet below.

Thanks to the skill of the balloon's pilot and a sizable chunk of good luck, Danny is resting comfortably in Letterman General Hospital today with nothing more serious than a badly bruised left hand.

Danny's unexpected high-flying adventure began Saturday morning when he and some friends happened upon the start of a balloon race from Tamalpais Valley, across the bay from San Francisco, to Alcatraz Island.

"Someone said, 'grab a rope and we did,'" Danny recalled from his hospital bed.

Danny and three of his friends held one of the four restraining ropes which hung from the 52-foot high orange and white balloon while Berry, 36, made the final preparations for his ascent.

All heard the command to let go except Danny, who felt only a "terrific jerk." He began slowly to rise from the ground.

"And then, a couple of seconds later, somebody grabbed

13 First Aiders To Be Honored At Annual Parade

Mrs. H. E. Parkes (retired) and Mrs. E. F. McNeil, service medals; Mrs. C. F. Lawrence, 20th first aid certificate; Mrs. G. Howard, 10th first aid and home nursing certificate; Mrs. L. B. Snook, warrant.

Awards in the Crusader and Cadet divisions went to:

my legs and I really felt a yank, like I was being yanked both ways," Danny said.

A group of spectators had watched in disbelief as Danny began to lift off the ground, but one man leaped up and grabbed his feet. That was when Danny felt the second jerk.

The unidentified man was unable to pull Danny free, but his action probably saved the boy's life. As the man tried to pull Danny back to earth, the rope tightened securely about three fingers on his left hand.

"I couldn't let go if I wanted to," Danny said.

The other spectators, meanwhile, were yelling desperately to attract Berry's attention. But the pilot could hear nothing over the roar of the overhead burners used to propel the balloon.

Finally, at an altitude of 3,000 feet, with the burners turned off, Berry was startled by Danny's calm plea for help.

When Berry saw Danny's predicament, he opened the release valve to start a 10-minute descent and tried to reassure his reluctant passenger.

Berry guided the balloon for a landing in a clump of trees two miles from his take-off point. Danny fell into a plum tree. A branch snapped his rope and he fell to the ground.

Youngsters will come to the aid of senior citizens May 2. They will march through the Greater Victoria area on a door-to-door canvas to help raise the $50,000 still needed for the senior citizen centre in Centennial Square.

Chairman of the drive R.

Highbailing New Train Worries Japan Commuters

By JOHN RODERICK
ODAWARA (AP)—It is called Yume-No-Chotokkyu—the dream super-express. When it flashes over the rails at 126 mph on Oct. 1 all Japan will hold its breath and pray it doesn't become a nightmare super-express.

Undergoing extensive final tests here, it is the world's fastest train, holder of the world's speed record of 153.6 miles an hour.

One of a stable of snout-nosed, cream-colored electric thoroughbreds, it eventually will cut the running time between Tokyo and Osaka to three hours from 6½. The distance is 322 miles.

The automatically controlled trains will use Japan's first broad-gauge railroad, a $1,000,000,000 project begun in 1958 and now 90 per cent complete.

The line cuts through Japan's industrial heartland, and will serve 70 per cent of its people.

TAKES OVER LOAD

This route is designed to take the strain off the old narrow-gauge Tokaido line, now at near-saturation point with 120 passenger trains and 770 freight trains on peak days.

Split-second timing over this congested route has contributed to spectacular accidents.

Japanese uneasy at the speed and timing of the 'old' line are beginning to wonder about feats of engineering involved in the new one. The trains will hurtle at the top permitted speed, 126 miles an hour, through 65 tunnels and over 3,100 bridges. For 61 miles of the route they will move on elevated trackage over highways, towns, and other railways.

The trains will not run at top capacity at the outset.

The new, multiple-unit electric cars have been designed with safety as a top consideration. They will be run by 250 motormen chosen after two years of intensive training, including brain wave tests to check on emotional stability.

Irish Grab Duke

NANAIMO (Special) — The brawling season, sometimes known as the boxia season, opened here in style Saturday.

A composite team of seniors, juniors, juveniles and what-have-you, wearing Victoria Shamrock sweaters, defeated Nanaimo 9-6 in the annual Shrine exhibition lacrosse struggle.

The hosts were without Tom McVie, which is like being without your right arm. Nanaimo coach Bud Dumont experimented liberally and, if the final score is the criteria, unsuccessfully.

The ultimate result of makedo lineups was a rousing evening of bumping heads leading to a gross 98 minutes in penalties.

It also led to seven Shamrock goals on the man-advantage situation. Bill Munroe, on the point, whistled in one goal and set up three others.

Jim McNeill fired three goals, assisted on two; Reg Foster had a pair of goals; and Ranjit Dillon plunked one goal—all on the power play.

Dillon later scored again and his younger brother, Nirmal, accounted for Victoria's ninth goal.

Larry Biggs (2-0) and Terry Davis (1-3) were Nanaimo's best. Supporting goals came from Bill Russell, Bob Shires and Bill Gold.

Shamrocks had a scare when goalie Barry Forbes, on the ball throughout, suffered a back injury late in the game. Taken to hospital he was released in time to return home with his mates, the victim only of a severe bruise.

Rough, But Effective

Professionals Ron MacLeod (right) and Laurie Carroll would hardly recommend hammer as tool for adjusting golf clubs but that's the implement Ron used at Victoria Golf Club Sunday. He changed angle by hammering down toe of putter then went out to turn in great putting performance and defeat Eric Wright in quarter-finals of Times Island Open tournament. Carroll also posted victory to join MacLeod in next Sunday's semis at Colwood. (Times photo by Irving Strickland.)

Munn Had Difficulties With Opportunity Door

Putter-Pounding MacLeod Has Answers for Wright

By DOUG PEDED

When they open the door of opportunity an inch or two on the fairways, you'd better kick it wide and step inside, brother, or you're asking to be left outside in the cold anteroom of the also-rans.

Invitations on the tournament trail don't come along often enough to pass them by.

Dick Munn hesitated at the threshold until it was too late Sunday at Victoria Golf Club and bowed out of the running for the Times Vancouver Island Open golf crown. When he finally tried to step inside, Bill Wakeham barred the portal with birdies and sent the power-hitting Cedar Hill professional tumbling to a 3-and-2 defeat.

Victory lifted Wakeham, the defending Island Open Champ and reigning B.C. Amateur king, into next Sunday's semifinals along with another amateur, Colwood's Vic Painter, and the professional pair of Ron MacLeod and Laurie Carroll.

Wakeham will tangle with MacLeod, the 1962 champion, in one half of the 36-hole semis at Colwood and the veteran Painter will take on Carroll.

MacLeod, who had used a hammer to change the blade angle of his bumpy putter earlier in the day, proved to be a capable club-fixer. He ran in some spectacular putts and coasted to a 5-and-3 triumph over Eric Wright of Uplands.

Carroll got away to a fast start and then played cautiously to carve out a 4-and-3 win over George Vale's Earl Francis.

Painter Too Steady for Carlow

Painter, who holds the official modern record of 64 for the par-69 Oak Bay layout, was just too steady for Mel Carlow. The Gorge Vale assistant pro couldn't find his usual accuracy with iron shots and went down to a 6-and-4 defeat.

Followed by most of the good-sized gallery that strolled around the links under a sun that had the warmth of summer, Wakeham and Munn staged an interesting match.

Munn, belting them big off the tees but uncertain around the greens, might have changed the tempo of the tussle had he been able to take advantage of champion's miseries on the par-five first hole.

Wakeham topped his second shot and opened the door when he fired his third over the green. Munn, pin-high in two, put too much muscle in a chip shot and wound up in a bunker. He blasted out, missed a seven-footer and settled for a bogey and a half.

Wakeham, dead as usual with his short game, promptly fired a birdie deuce on the second and won the third with a par to go two up. The next three were halved in pars and Munn got one back with a par on the trouble-inviting, 215-yard seventh.

Then disaster struck the youthful pro.

Just short of the green on the short eighth, he needed three more strokes to get down and Wakeham again went two up with a par.

'This Isn't What I Had in Mind' Muses Abel as Wings Clipped

DETROIT (CP)—Sid Abel's team lost Saturday night, but one of his wishes was fulfilled.

Before the fourth game in the Stanley Cup finals the manager-coach of Detroit Red Wings expressed the hope that the winner would be decided before the last minute.

"This isn't exactly what I had in mind," Abel mused after Toronto Maple Leafs scored at 18:09 of the third period to wrap up a 4-2 win and even the series at two games apiece.

The 46-year-old coach, who was captain of three Red Wing Stanley Cup winners, had voted for an early decision in Saturday's game because the first three were decided or altered in the final minute.

As he watched his come-from-behind contingent shuck their sweaty uniforms and prepare to return to their Toledo, Ohio, hideout, Abel looked relaxed and confident as he discussed the rest of the series.

"Don't forget we were in this same situation with Chicago Black Hawks in the semi-final—and we went out and dropped the next one too. But here we are in the final because our fellows refused to quit. We won the last two and licked them on their own ice."

The Leafs hit fast Saturday, in contrast to their earlier efforts, and Dave Keon scored the first of his two goals in the first period. A series of penalties blunted Toronto's attack while the Wings ran up a 2-1 lead on short shot by Bruce MacGregor and a power-play slider by Gordie Howe.

Keon, who joined linemates Don McKenney and George Armstrong in harassing goalie Terry Sawchuk all evening, banged in the tying shot late in the second period while two Detroit defencemen were serving penalties.

This set the stage for the most spectacular goal of the series, the 45-foot winner by Andy Bathgate in the middle of the third.

Frank Mahovlich, who later scored the fourth Toronto goal on a rebound, fed the puck out of the Leaf zone past defenceman Marcel Pronovost. Bathgate cradled the puck on his curved stick blade for about four seconds while he glided into Red Wing territory and sized up Sawchuk's quarters.

Puck Rose Like a Frightened Quail

As Pronovost showed split-second hesitation and made a motion to cut away toward Red Kelly coming in from the opposite wing, Bathgate snapped his wrists and the puck rose like a frightened quail. Before Sawchuk could wiggle an elbow, the disc clipped the upper part of the post and plunked into the net.

"I saw it on his stick and the next thing I knew it was in," Sawchuk said later.

"That has to be my biggest goal for the Leafs," said Bathgate, who was a New York Ranger for 12 seasons before being traded this spring along with McKenney. "You know, they stayed with me, and I was worried coming from New York and then not hitting."

One Red Wing thought he had won it early in the third period.

Larry Jeffrey, who scored in overtime in the second game in Toronto, was cruising past the open side of the Toronto net when Norm Ullman shot the puck across the goalmouth.

"I stuck out my stick and deflected it—I thought—past (Johnny) Bower," Jeffrey said. "I was so sure it went in that I raised my stick and turned around to celebrate. The crowd was roaring, but when I looked back someone had the puck behind the net."

"I'll probably never know how I missed." Manager-coach Punch Imlach of Toronto said on the train home after the game: "Those two, Bathgate and Mahovlich, have the hardest shots in the league, but don't use them often enough. Tonight they shot, and look what happened."

Bathgate described the winner as "a sinker shot, like a baseball pitch."

"I went for the high part of the net on Sawchuk," he explained, "because he has a habit of crouching. When I slap the

Perkins Defends His Ring Crown

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP)—Eddie Perkins of Chicago successfully defended his world junior welterweight boxing championship Saturday night, pounding out a unanimous 15-round decision over young Jamaican Bunny Grant.

Perkins shook off the effects of an eye cut and closed with a strong showing in the last four rounds.

United blanked North Shore 2-0 at Royal Athletic Park in a game that had no effect on the final standings.

Neither club played well in the meaningless 90 minutes. It was in the main a kick-and-run affair with more kicking than running.

A penalty goal by Pat Mulcahy opened the scoring at 29 minutes of the second half. Reserve Ron Pederson, sliding to get his foot on a through pass from Henri Vanderhorst, got the last goal just 30 seconds from time.

Shores disputed the penalty call, and it seemed they had a point. It was awarded by referee George Steele after Mulcahy had driven a hard shot from the outside corner of the penalty area. It hit Rod Thomson's arm but the centre-half had no chance to avoid it.

Mulcahy took the spot kick but keeper Al Galaway got a piece of the ball and it hit the crossbar. Before Galaway could recover, Mulcahy headed the rebound into the net.

Tommy Held was busting birds in fancy style Sunday to capture the top award in the annual Victoria City trap championships at Victoria Gun Club.

The New Westminster shotgun ace finished with the high overall tally for the day to collect the Ernie Todd Trophy. He also blasted his way to the handicap crown and the high-gun title in doubles competition.

Port Alberni's Norman Young picked up two titles as he topped the A class field in 16-yard targets and won the C class doubles event.

Bert Thomas of the host club packed the high gun in the 16-yard competition as two other Victoria shots paced their divisions. Dale McColl won B class and Lloyd Milburn posted a D class triumph.

Jim Robertson of Vancouver took the C-class championship from 16 yards and Port Alberni's Ed Herd collected a doubles crown.

From Ninth to Beach By Seventh

Dick had another invitation on the par-three ninth when Wakeham pulled his tee shot and was faced with a difficult chip to the slick, sloping green and a probable bogey.

Munn missed the open door. He pushed a screaming iron shot below the hole into rocks and bush. Unable to shoot for the green he played for the seventh fairway and set something of a record for the ninth when he hit it too well and saw the ball bound down onto the beach. Left with an impossible shot, Munn conceded the hole and went three down.

He trimmed a stroke from par the rest of the way, but it was too late. Wakeham answered each new challenge with birdies.

Munn sliced the margin to two holes with a bird on 11. Wakeham promptly tapped in a birdie putt on 12. Munn's hopes again flickered when Wakeham ran into tree trouble and lost the 15th. But Billy bounced right back to wind up the match and pull even with par with a 14-foot birdie putt on the 16th.

MacLeod, recently plagued by poor putting, tilted up the toe of his blade Saturday. That didn't help so Ron pulled out the hammer again Sunday and bashed the toe down.

Carroll Also Starts with Birdie

If you think that didn't work, ask Eric Wright.

Wright, who didn't follow his usual down-the-middle trail, watched MacLeod roll in a birdie putt on the first hole, drop a 12-footer on the third, a 15-footer on the fifth and an 11-foot birdie tap on the eighth.

The accuracy left MacLeod four up and even with par after eight holes and he ended it on the 15th after halving the previous six holes.

Carroll also birdied the first hole and went three-up when Francis three-putted the second and third greens. Laurie faltered and allowed McColl to take the next three but got back into the battle by winning the 18th. McColl scrambled for a half in pars on the 19th and won it on the second extra hole with a par.

In the handicap semis it will be McColl against Graham and Horwood against Cameron.

TICEHURST KNOCKS OFF JEROSKI ON MAINLAND

VANCOUVER—Bert Ticehurst defeated professional Joe Jeroski at the 20th hole of the Vancouver City Match Play Open at Capilano golf course Sunday.

Ticehurst, a former Willingdon Cup choice, is considered one of Canada's top amateur match players.

Other winners in the second round of match play were Ed Canover, Les Langlois, Sandy McLeod, Bill Thompson, Bryan Copp and Bill Carrington, all from the Vancouver area.

Third round will be held at Marine Drive next Sunday.

Leading British Track Authority Heading for UBC

LONDON (CP)—Still another top British coach is joining the "muscle hustle" to Canada.

Lionel Pugh, mentor at Oxford University and former national coach in the Midlands area, leaves in June to become a sports adviser at the University of British Columbia.

Pugh will be billed as "assistant professor in charge of track and field athletics coaching." British reports say, and will draw a salary of about £5,000 ($15,000). This is more than three times what he receives from Britain's Amateur Athletic Association.

The British coach is quoted as saying that Canada is making a "tremendous drive" to become a power in track and field. There was "plenty of money" around to aid the drive.

Just as British scientists are trekking to Canada and the United States in a mass exodus, known as the "brain drain," so the coaches from the Old Country are queuing up to join the muscle hustle or, as some call it, the "train-drain."

Pugh has been training hurdling star Mike Hogan and 440-yard runner Adrian Metcalfe, among others, for the forthcoming Olympics. He says their Olympic preparation will not be affected by his departure.

"They are intelligent men and when I leave it will be just a case of their carrying through their speed work to reach their peaks."

He said he will also send them tape-recorded instructions from Canada.

NICKLAUS SECOND

Souchak Grabs Houston Purse

HOUSTON (AP)—Big Mike Souchak, two down after the first nine holes, rallied with two birdie putts on the back nine Sunday to win $7,500 top money in the $50,000 Houston Golf Classic by one stroke over the favored Jack Nicklaus.

Nicklaus, who had held or shared the lead through the first 16 holes of the final round, saw a 25-foot putt that would have permitted him to tie the Souchak's 278-six-under-par miss the final green cup by six inches.

Souchak, the 1955 Classic champion, placed a final round 70 beside earlier rounds of 71, 69 and 68 in winning his first championship since the 1961 Greensboro Open.

Souchak and Nicklaus had started the final 18 holes on the 7,233-yard par-71 course deadlocked at 208. Their battle was not settled until Nicklaus took a one-over-par four on the 195-yard 17th.

MISSSES AGAIN
Nicklaus' 76-66-66-71—279 was worth $4,000 and marked the third time in three years for him to make a near miss at the Classic. He lost a playoff for the title in 1962 and finished fourth last year.

Al Johnston got in just under the wire with scores of 76-73-72 for a 221 total. Sunday he covered the course in 75 bringing his total to 296, well out of the money.

Winnipeg's Wilf Homenuik was squeezed out Saturday with a 222 total, compiled on round scores of 70-76-76.

Leading scores:
A. C. Smokey Green (PPCLD) 69-69—138.

Y Gymnasts Dominate Island Meet

Victoria YMCA gymnasts are entitled to flex their muscles today.

Their bag of swag overflowed at the Island championships Saturday at Campbell River.

They won four major titles, dominated the competition involving 75 competitors from Victoria, Courtenay and Campbell River.

Ron Peterson won the prep boys' all-around crown, posting five firsts in six events.

Jim Cowdson won the junior boys' all-around title with four firsts and two seconds.

Ricky Johnson was the intermediate boys' all-around king, checking in with three firsts and two seconds.

In the junior girls' competition, Victorians finished one-two-three. Diane Hill, with two firsts, was named queen. Behind her came Barbara Smythes and Penny Schaefer.

Bearcat Best In Mat Clash

Bearcat Wright took two of three falls to defeat rugged Bulldog Brower in the main event of Saturday night's professional wrestling card at Memorial Arena.

In supporting bouts, Dale Lewis made Kinja Shibuya say "uncle," Don Leo Jonathan grappled to a draw with Enrique Torres, Mighty Ursus defeated Roy Collins and Fred Brown struggled to a draw with Bad Boy Shields.

Jerome Wins Pair But Webfeet Upset

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Southern California's national champion Trojans threw back an Oregon challenge Saturday in a dual track and field meet, 82-63—but Canadian Harry Jerome was a double winner in the sprints and Archie San Romani loomed to an easy victory in the mile.

Southern California had too much strength, as expected, in the field events and swept all three places in the shot put, discus and long jump.

The Trojans registered nine first places to five for Oregon. Jerome, who missed the entire 1963 season because of a leg injury, captured the 100-yard dash in 9.5, the 220 in 21.2 and ran the anchor lap in the winning 440-yard relay for Oregon. San Romani was expected to have trouble with rival Bruce Bess in the mile since Bess had a best time of 4:03.2 this year.

But the Webfoot finished a good 40 yards in front in 4:06.0 to 4:11.6 for the Trojan.

In the two-mile run, in which the two varsities and athletes of Santa Ana Jr. College and the Trojan freshmen competed, Bob Delaney of Santa Ana set a national junior college record by winning in 8:57.4. The national record was 9:04.9 set at Modesto, Calif., in 1963 by Richard Krenmer of Los Angeles Valley College.

Association, the club which held them to a draw in last year's B.C. final for the Rounsfell Cup.

Fortunate to hold a 6-0 lead after JBAA had held a slight territorial edge in the opening half, the Kats never missed a trick in the second session as they exploited weak spots left by injuries to the Oarsmen.

They didn't ease up an iota as they pounded at a short-handed JBAA backfield, unleashing some spectacular running to score five unconverted tries and finish with a 21-0 triumph and another B.C. crown.

Kats were just as impressive in the second division provincial final in the same park, blanking Victoria Navy 15-0 on a pair of tries by Bruce Allardice and one by Ian Bowland, plus two penalty goals by Roger Krenquist.

SHOULDER INJURY

Veteran three-quarter George Salinas, the field general of the first division Kats, got the Vancouver champs out in front in the opening half with a pair of penalty goals.

The Oarsmen suffered disastrous setbacks just before half time. Backfielder Gordie Hemmingsway, who had been holding opposing stand-off Ted Hunt well in check, suffered a shoulder separation, and running mate Jack Patrick was hobbled with a painful knee injury a few minutes later.

Hemmingsway elected to give it a try as the second half opened while Patrick stayed on the sidelines. Gordie lasted five minutes and Patrick went back on the field but could do little to stop the powerful Kats.

SAINAS SETS PACE

With Salinas leading the way, Kats concentrated their attack on the JBAA backfield. Salinas, almost always drawing a tackle before passing the ball, was able to spring fleet Jerry Lorenz loose for long runs and the Kats turned it into a rout on two tries by Lorenz and singles by Bill Gerwin, Brian McKee and Swede Carlson.

Kats, whose aggressive tactics have provoked charges of "dirty play" from teams in their own league, were certainly aggressive but seldom seemed to stray beyond the rules.

Til Briggs of the Oarsmen may have summed it up when he said:

"They were rough, tough and effective, but I never saw any dirty play. They're smart. They saw we were two men short and went at it."

Celtics Lead Hoop Playoff

BOSTON (AP)—John Havlicek fired 18 points in a second period blitz and Bill Russell out-defended Wilt Chamberlain as Boston defeated San Francisco 108-96 Saturday night.

The Celtics, seeking a sixth straight National Basketball Association playoff title, showed no rustiness from a long layoff while taking the opener of the best-of-seven final series. The next game will be in Boston.

Havlicek's 28 points and 28 more by Sam Jones led the defending champions, while Wilt Chamberlain had 22 points for the Warriors, 10 of them before intermission.

COLUMBUS WINS

Wallaces Rough In Final Match

VANCOUVER (CP)—Columbus defeated Wallaces 2-0 in the win/put game of the regular Pacific Coast Soccer League schedule here Saturday in one of the roughest games of the season.

Four players, two from each team, were sent off the field as tempers boiled over in the second half of play. One player was carried off the field on a stretcher and at least two others had to have stitches for face cuts.

With nothing at stake in the game Columbus tried to take it easy but the hard-tackling Wallace team would not allow it.

First Al Mayevich of Wallace and Steve Djorich of Columbus were sent off by referee Frank Lee. Then Dan Comuzzi of Columbus and Jack Jones of Wallace got the gate for fighting. Both teams finished the game with nine men.

Suspended for life were coach Guy Boucher of the Chomedey, Que., Junior "B" team and Julien Dupont of the Trois-Rivieres, Que., Reds. Both suspensions were for attacks on officials during the past season.

Boucher's offence followed a game Feb. 25 when he is said to have attacked referee Andre Langevin of Montreal.

QAHA suspensions are recognized by all organized hockey leagues, amateur and professional, in North America.

Dupont was charged with having set up on linesman Derek Jensen of Trois-Rivieres during a game there.

Mays' Firecracker Bat Ignites Giants' Attack

The 1964 National League baseball season is one week old and certain facts are clear.

Willie Mays hasn't lost an ounce of his old zip and is off to his finest major league start.

The N.L. Champion Dodgers are having problems. Philadelphia Phillies have the league's hottest rookie in Richie Allen.

SIX FOR SIX
The New York Mets have a gold mine.

Amazin' Willie poled his sixth home run in six games Sunday as the Giants pounded Cincinnati 13-6.

The 32-year-old centre-fielder has now driven in 13 runs and accounted for 27 total bases in 23 official at bats. His batting average is a resounding .391 and he's playing with a wrist taped as a result of being hit by a pitch in an exhibition game.

"I'm happy the way things are going," Mays said after the Giants soaked the game away by scoring nine times in the sixth innings. "But something like this ain't going to last. We all know that."

A year ago Mays was hitting .250 after six games and .247 with the season five weeks old, but still finished the season with a .314 mark. National League pitchers can draw their own conclusions.

Elsewhere, Milwaukee shaded Los Angeles, 3-2 in 12 innings; Philadelphia clubbed Chicago, 8-1; the Mets whitewashed Pittsburgh 6-0; and St. Louis defeated Houston, 6-1.

WHERE'S THE POWER?
Yogi Berra tasted victory as manager for the first time but he's still waiting to see the vaulted New York power.

After dropping three consecutive extra inning contests, the American League champions picked up their first win by downing Baltimore Orioles 5-3, in a rain-delayed game.

But Berra is still haunted by the thought that his Yankees are the only major league team without a home run this season.

In other AL action, Minnesota thumped Detroit, 12-3, in the first game of a double-header, but the Tigers won the nightcap, 3-1; Chicago blanked Boston, 6-0; Kansas City stopped Washington, 5-1.

Kansas City loaded the bases in the fifth with one out and a 2-1 lead. Jim Gentile lifted a routine fly to left field which Chuck Hinton corralled as Nelson Mathews tagged to score from third. The Senator outfielder, believing it was the third out, began to jog in while Ed Charles tallied from second on the sacrifice fly. A moment later, Doc Edwards singled home the third run of the inning. The next inning Hinton was on the bench.

Chorley Sinks Important Putt
WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg Maroon coach Gord Simpson is confident his club can gain a second straight berth in the Allan Cup final.

Following Maroons' 7-5 squeaker over Saskatoon Quakers Sunday, giving Winnipeg a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven western final, Simpson said: "All we have to do is win one there (in Saskatoon). And we've got a good road record behind us."

The middle portion of the series is scheduled for Saskatoon Wednesday, Friday and Monday. Further games, if needed, will be played on Winnipeg ice.

Simpson's defending western champions won Sunday's game with a tie-breaking goal late in the third period by Elliott Chorley.

FIREFIGHTERS OUST AVALONS

VANCOUVER (CP)—Defending B.C. soccer champions, Vancouver Firefighters moved into the quarter finals of the Province Cup competition for the provincial championship Saturday, defeating North Shore Avalons of the Mainland League by a 3-0 score.

Centre forward Jim Bundell was the hero for the firemen scoring all three goals in the second half of play.

Firefighters now meet North Shore United of the Pacific Coast League in the quarter finals.

Connie Mack Session
Victoria Connie Mack League has scheduled a meeting at 8 tonight in the Jaycee Little League Park clubhouse, Cook and Hillside.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—The Sidney Poitier victory in the Oscar scramble may result in some enormous advancements for Negro actors.

There has been talk around Broadway and Hollywood for a year that Poitier might be the first Negro to have a dramatic series on TV... and this, of course, was long before he won the Oscar. The talk is being revived now.

Sammy Davis Jr. is going to star shortly in a Broadway show, "Golden Boy," which could attract further attention to another Negro talent, already acclaimed as one of the greatest, Harry Belafonte. Pearl Bailey, Ella Fitzgerald, Lena Horne, Diahann Carroll, Louis Armstrong, Cab Calloway, Duke Ellington and so many others are already tops in cafes and supper clubs.

If there's any opposition to such advances, it won't come from fellow actors.

After Poitier won an Oscar for "Lilies of the Field," it was easy, of course, to find a lot of people who'd been for him all the time... and there must have been many, or he wouldn't have won... But we know positively about one actor who'd been rooting for him... and that was a competitor, Paul Newman.

"Do you have hopes of winning the award yourself?" we quizzed Newman (who was nominated for "Hud") the afternoon before the award show.

"I would like to see Sidney Poitier win," was Newman's answer. "He is an outstanding and worthy actor."

Newman and his wife, Joanne Woodward—who had a night off from their "Baby Face" previews—cheered loudly in their apartment when Poitier won, and Newman said, "This is a great credit to the Academy," even though it snatched the Oscar away from him (and Albert Finney). Newman sent Poitier a wire which said:

"I wish I could be disappointed, but I'm really not."

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions to select to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a 10-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to George Kusy, age 12, of St. Catharines, Ont., Canada, for his question:

What kind of bird is the Arctic tern?

On the wing, the Arctic tern looks like a large white swallow. We have all watched the swifts and swallows darting and turning at high speeds through the summer air. Our swallow-tailed tern is as graceful as these aerial acrobats, and what's more he may travel 22,000 miles of straight flying every year of his life. Every year he migrates between the Arctic and Antarctic Circles. This makes him the world's champion migrator.

The graceful bird may measure 16 inches from the tip of his red bill to the black tip of his forked tail. His under-side is snowy white. The soft plumage on his back and upper wings is pale, pearly grey, and he wears a round black cap on the top of his head. His legs and webbed feet are bright red to match his bill.

The Arctic tern and about 40 of his cousins belong to a family of seagoing shore birds. These fellows are expert fishermen, and some can dive and even swim underwater. They are sometimes called sea swallows because of their graceful antics on the wing. Most of them nest along lonely beaches and the Arctic tern has nesting grounds around the Arctic Ocean, Greenland and Labrador, Iceland and northern Scotland. Some nest as far south as Massachusetts.

The parents arrive at their northern nesting grounds in mid-June and settle down to enjoy months of Arctic summer in which the sun never sets. Come fall, the youngsters are ready for the long journey south.

Atlantic, and the routes they take are now fairly well known, as well as the stop-offs and traveling times.

Come fall, one stream of Arctic terns from the far north fly southeast across the Atlantic. They are joined by brethren from Greenland, Iceland and Scotland and vast flocks swoop down along the western shores of Europe and Africa. Near the equator, some flocks recross the Atlantic and proceed down the shores of South America. The main stream sweeps down the African coast to journey's end along the south polar shores.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL... The Richard Burtons attended a dinner party at Perona's, and Liz told their host, "Don't separate us—we've only been married two weeks." Frank Sinatra phoned Mister J's Steakhouse, after the Oscar show and told Jilly, "I'll be in tomorrow—defrost a side of beef!"

Johnny Ray and Nanette Fabray—both have defective hearing—were on the dais at the League for the Hard of Hearing luncheon here... Charlie Chaplin's son Michael, 18, is studying drama in London (and clerking in a law office to pay for it)...

While B. Bardot's ex, Roger Vadim, is recovering from a broken shoulder in Paris, he's being consoled by Jane Fonda... Jimmy Dean turned down 17Gs in bookings so he can go fishing in July... Simone Signoret quit the film she was making in Greece with Anthony

Quinn—she felt she wasn't old enough to play a 65-year-old prostitute. (She's 43.)

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: "TV is so educational," claims Oscar Homolka. "For instance, it taught me never to buy another set."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Slogan for a kindergarten: "Where every day is a holiday-day." Henna Arond Zacks.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "The best time to hold your tongue is when you feel you must say something or bust." Josh Billings.

EARL'S PEARLS: Men have always paid dearly for freedom. History says so—alimony proves it. Peter Menegre.

Taffy Tuttle was surprised at some of the Academy Award results. She thought the year's Best Supporting Actor was Sonny Liston.

That's earl, brother.

People Vague On Play Centre Reeve Cox Says

Some residents appear misinformed about a proposed $1,000,000 recreation centre for Oak Bay, Reeve Allan Cox said Saturday.

"There seems to be a misconception about the whole thing," the reeve said, referring to the proposed site at Foul Bay and Cadboro Bay Roads, where some 42 parcels of land—most with homes—would have to be bought or expropriated.

"People think council is promoting the thing. We've merely said in our letter to ratepayers there has been some demand and this seems to be the best location."

"Therefore we are leaving it up to the voters."

All Oak Bay ratepayers are asked to vote on the recreation centre Saturday.

MANY CRITICS

Objections have been raised as to the actual need of a centre, and to its location.

The reeve pointed out that studies on a centre have been in progress for about two years and it was found there are some "very definite limitations" on other possible sites.

It would be "hopelessly short range" to use existing park space for such a centre, he said. To take such property as contained in the Foul Bay area is only a "sensible long range view," the reeve said.

ALTERNATIVE

"Otherwise we will be spending money for new parks, at great cost."

The proposed site has the most positive factors about it and the referendum "hasn't been arrived at in any snap way."

It is only economic to have such features as skating rink, curling rinks, swimming pool, club rooms and meeting areas together because "these things help sustain each other."

If ratepayers turn it down, council will have to consider a part of the proposed facilities in a more modest way, the reeve said.

The instructions call for residents to phone all the Oak Bay taxpayers they know and "try to convince them they should vote 'No'."

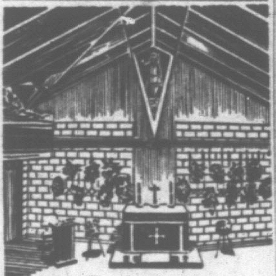

Some of the reasons suggested for voting against the project include:

"Real needs of the community have not been properly determined";

"Details of the proposal are too vague";

"Size and cost are out of all proportion in a municipality of this population, compared to what is being done in other places";

"Forty homes are going to be destroyed... This is a most unreasonable burden. There must be a better solution than this."

By The Way

Vancouver Island is a place of consummate beauty—but sometimes we take it for granted because its glories are so complete. To reawaken appreciation for the visual pleasures they afford, The Times offers some views that can be enjoyed without a far journey—and some that are off the beaten track. Have you a favorite?

Those who travel the Gorge know Craigflower School standing primly at the roadside. Since 1885 (it's the oldest school of those preserved in western Canada) the old lady has seemed to admonish passers-by, "Shoulders back, swing the arms..."

How many have really observed her—spared a glance for her historic simplicity, the geometric precision of her many-paned windows, her regal, non-nonsense, purposeful stance which survived the suns and storms of a century or more.

Pause when you pass and she'll return the kindness with an enigmatic charm that stirs the spirit like a scent of lavender.

Topics of the Day

Two naval fire service trucks of HMC Dockyard responded to a fire alarm signal from Work Point Barracks Sunday at 11:05 a.m.

Duty fire captain James Bryan said the alarm was caused by sensitive wiring in a fire box which resulted in a mechanical "short."

The wiring was repaired and the all-clear signal was sounded at 11:30 a.m. No other damage was caused.

Odds Are 137,043 to One In Irish Sweep, Says Cleric

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Times Church Editor

The people of Ireland contribute only 4 per cent of the money put into Irish sweepstakes, according to Rev. F. E. H. James, DD, Irish-born minister of Metropolitan United Church.

In a sermon Sunday night, Dr. James said Canadians and Americans pay about $14 for every $1 risked by the Irish sweepstakes.

"That $14 is multiplied by the large sums spent on fraudulent tickets," he added.

Dr. James said when a man buys a ticket in the Irish sweepstakes the odds against him are 137,043 to one. When he backs a horse in any race the odds against him average out at about 75,000 to one.

He said the United Church of Canada is opposed to gambling because it is based on "personal gain at the expense of others," and any benefits to charity are secondary to that motive.

"Today about 60,000,000 people in Canada and the United States are gambling regularly in one form or another. Service clubs are involved in it, and not even the Christian church has escaped this hideous infection."

"Christians everywhere are engaging in bingo and other games of chance whose object is personal gain at the expense of others."

"No one has the moral right to exploit the cupidity of our people in the name of charity. Gambling is a sin against society. It is destructive of home life, it impoverishes many of its followers and it distorts the true spirit of adventure which ennobles the human race."

A youth who, his lawyer said, thought he was being "a public benefactor" got a $100 fine in city court today.

Mitchell Swain, 18, of 618 Esquimalt Road, drove on Craigflower Road April 12 while he was disqualified from driving for a hit-and-run conviction.

Defence counsel Alan Bigelow said Swain was driving the car for a drunken friend and thought he was a "public benefactor" in keeping the drunk off the road.

Magistrate William Ostler said this was no excuse.

A benefit show Sunday for the flood-stricken Alberni valley garnered $151.84, said organizer Hew Gwynne today.

About 400 people attended the 20-act show in the Atlas Theatre.

The money was turned over to Alderman Robert Baird, city council's relief fund chairman.

"The whole two and a half hour show only cost one dollar to put on," said Mr. Gwynne.

Victoria Cymrodorion (Welsh) Society will visit Vancouver May 3 to take part in the Gymnast Ganu Welsh song festival in the Cambrian Hall.

A chartered bus will leave the C and C Taxi stand, 906 Government, at 10 a.m. A few seats are available and interested persons should contact Mrs. Flo Quinn at GR 9392.

Old Age Pensioners Group No. 55 will meet Friday at 2 p.m. in St. Marks Hall, corner of Bolesline and Tennyson Streets.

The Victoria Boys Band will hold a tag day Saturday, May 16, to help raise funds to buy uniforms and instruments.

For the third consecutive year Lucky Lager Breweries Limited in Victoria have been declared a winner in the National Safety Contest of the Brewers Association of Canada.

The Victoria plant recorded only one lost-time injury in two years (1962 and 1963), to win a top award Category C across Canada (classification is by size and output of the plants).

British Columbia brewing plants are presently celebrating a reduction in accident frequency rates of 60 per cent on the rate in 1948, when the brewers' national safety program began. And the 1963 rate for the province is slightly better than that recorded nationally.

Convenor of tag day for the Cerebral Palsy Auxiliary, Mrs. Jeannie Southwell reported today total intake on Saturday amounted to $1,500.

Two Youths Admit One of 14 Burglary Charges

Two youths who are each facing 14 burglary charges, pleaded guilty to one of them when they appeared in Saanich court today.

Donald Merke, 17, of 3534 Tillicum, and Lawrence Parker, 16, of 3334 Rolston Crescent, were remanded to Wednesday when the further charges will be laid.

The charge to which they pleaded today is one of breaking and entering at 527 Broadway with intent to commit an offence March 5.

Gas Siphoners Pay $75 Fines

Two sailors caught siphoning gas from a truck each were fined $75 in city court today.

They are Wayne Owen, HMCS Cape Breton, and Donald Cardinal, HMCS Jonquiere.

In addition Cardinal was bound over for six months on a $250 bond, and ordered to give up his driving licence for the same period. It was his car they were gassing up.

Constable John Markin said the two were caught by a Western Home Guard patrol stealing the gasoline from a construction company truck at 760 Topaz.

Last Offer Made Say Shipbuilders

Companies involved in the B.C. shipyards dispute said today they have made their last offer to the unions.

The companies charged union leaders have "utilized every means available to prevent our employees from returning to work."

Members' rejection of a contract proposal last week was the fourth in succession.

Yarrows Limited and Victoria Machinery Depot, both of Victoria, and Burrard Dry Dock of Vancouver said in a statement through the B.C. Shipbuilders' Federation that the vote was a "direct reflection" of the recommendation from the union leaders.

The statement quoted J. W. Hudson, federation chairman and executive vice-president of Burrard Dry Dock, as saying in part:

"Every effort made during the past 8½ months of negotiations to provide continuing employment in the shipyards has been fruitless."

"The competitive state of the shipbuilding industry in B.C. at this time precludes the companies from making any further offers. Our employees must recognize that their return to work can only be accomplished by a settlement which will allow the companies to secure business to keep them employed."

28 CENTS REJECTED

The strike began Feb. 5 after the workers turned down a conciliation board recommendation of 28 cents an hour over a three-year contract.

Their original demand was 40 cents an hour over two years, since reduced to 30 cents over two years.

The latest proposal from William Sands, B.C.'s deputy labor minister, was for 36 cents over three years.

About 2,000 men in 22 unions are involved.

Hourly service was to start June 15.

But the B.C. Ferry Authority needs two new ships to do it.

Both of them are now lying unfinished at Victoria Machinery Depot because of the strike.

The Queen of Nanaimo will take only seven days to finish, a ferry spokesman said today.

A crash building program could get both ships in service this summer, but this would need a swift strike settlement.

The ferry official said he does not know what will happen if the strike continues.

BIDS DUE

Meanwhile tenders for a new ferry to run between northern Vancouver Island and Prince Rupert are due on Wednesday.

The ferry authority also planned to call tenders soon for a new Gulf Islands ferry.

Both of these ships were to be in service next year.

The strike has been under way since Feb. 5 and a backlog of work at coast shipyards may force delay in the new ships.

The mainland ferries will go on a semi-summer schedule Friday.

There will be three ships on each of the Swartz Bay Tsawwassen and Nanaimo-Horseshoe Bay routes.

The service will have an extra sailing every second hour starting at 10 a.m. and ending at 10 p.m. at the Vancouver terminals.

At the moment it is still planned to put the Swartz Bay service on an hourly basis with four ships June 15.

But Nanaimo may have to fall back to two-hour service.

This is because the Sechart Queen—formerly the Chinook—will be needed for other routes.

Power Engineers Meet

Victoria branch, Institute of Power Engineers will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the B.C. Hydro building Flame Room.

Films on corrosion will be shown.

Three Missing In Small Boat

Prospect Lake Water Petition Awaits Names

A local improvement petition for extension of city water to Prospect Lake residents is at Saanich municipal hall waiting for signatures.

It is the latest step in the municipality's attempt to solve the polluted water problem at the lake, a source of argument for nearly a year.

The Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health warned residents of the area last year that Prospect Lake water is not sufficiently clean for domestic use.

A report made last fall by Saanich chief inspector D. W. R. Smith disclosed that wells in the area are also polluted.

MORE CONTROL

Mr. Smith recommended that city water be piped out for residents, and that sewage disposal should be more rigorously controlled.

His report—and the health board's warning—have been hotly argued by residents of the area, some of whom maintain the lake water is fit to drink.

Saanich has decided that extension of water mains to Prospect Lake must be done as a local improvement.

TWO-THIRDS SIGN

This means two-thirds of the affected residents must sign the petition now in municipal clerk Gordon Hayward's office.

Saanich will bear $109,000 of the $230,000 total cost of installation, with home-owners paying the balance over 20 years.

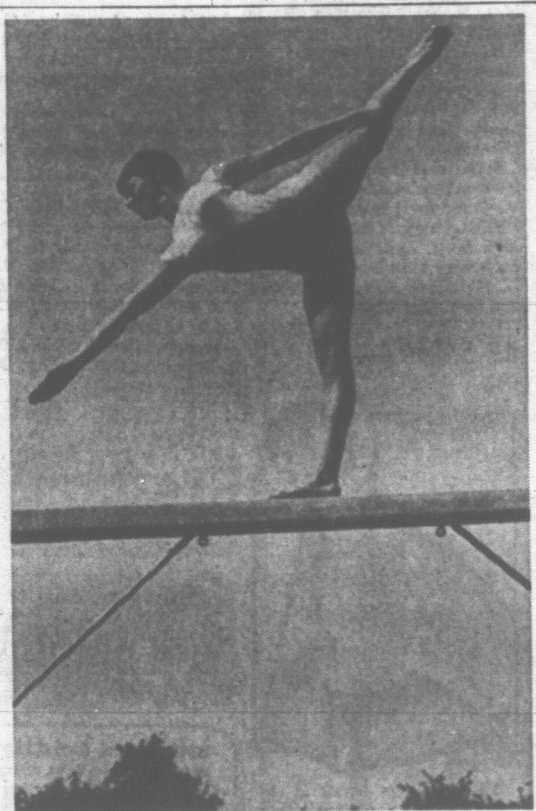

Mains would be extended from the line which at present terminates on West Saanich Road near the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory.

Boy Hit in Mouth By Air Gun Shot

A 15-year-old boy walking along Lansdowne near Eastdowne Saturday evening was shot in the mouth by a pellet from an air gun.

William Hawkins, 2915 Fifth, had to go to Royal Jubilee Hospital to have the small lead shot removed from his tongue. He was later released.

The shot was fired by someone who was likely standing on Uplands golf course, police said.

Style Beats Stunts On Danish Gym Team

Mid-air somersaults, high bar balancing and hand stands. They are all so simple any child could do them, but it takes a team of Danish gymnasts to prove it.

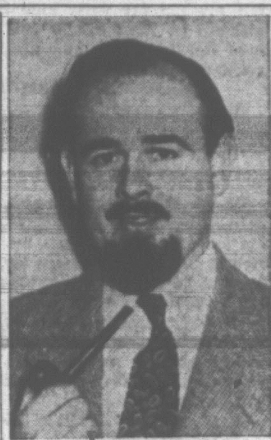

On May 7 a team of 12 boys and 12 girls selected from various gymnastics in Denmark will perform at the Memorial Arena.

They are not professionals trained to dazzle the public with acrobatic stunts. Instead their grace, posture and naturalness of movement will provide an evening of ballet-like entertainment.

Hoops, rhythm sticks and balls are all essential in modern Danish rhythmic gymnastics. It is perfect style that counts more than complicated acrobatics.

The Danish Gym Team, which has been on tour in North America since last summer, will make its final performance for this year at the New York World's Fair in July.

In Victoria the performance is being sponsored by the Canadian Association of Physical Education, Health and Recreation.

Duncan Men, Boy Gone For 30 Hours

Two Duncan men and a boy have been missing in an open boat in Georgia Strait for more than 30 hours.

Occupants are Bud Plunet, 1051 Chaster Ave., Ken Klingenberg, 1068 Holmes St., and Klingenberg's 12-year-old son Bruce.

They left Lantzville about 5 a.m. Sunday for a fishing trip in the Nanoose Bay area aboard a 14-foot blue and white fiberglass boat.

An RCAF Albatross aircraft was put in the air at daybreak today when the party was first reported missing.

RULED OUT

By noon, it had sighted nothing other than some floating boat gear that has been tentatively ruled out as wreckage for the missing boat.

A Coast Guard cutter, Racer, was due to reach the area about noon. The Albatross had to quit the search for about an hour to refuel.

RCMP found the men's car and trailer near where they are presumed to have launched their boat at Lantzville.

They were known to have intended to go fishing around Maude Island and Gray Rock, near Nanoose Harbor.

HAD LIFE JACKETS

Their boat was equipped with life jackets, paddles and a 40-h.p. outboard motor, according to RCAF.

Weather in Georgia Strait overnight was clear but windy, and winds in the area are reported picking up today.

A heavy sea was reported running overnight.

Two Injured In Crashes At Intersections

Two persons were injured in separate traffic accidents in Victoria this morning.

The first occurred at Vancouver and Pembroke when a car driven by Bak Gee Chong, Port Alberni, was in collision with one driven by James Bryce, 49, of 1272 Pembroke.

Mr. Bryce was admitted to Royal Jubilee Hospital in a state of shock and with a head injury. Mr. Chong was discharged from St. Joseph's Hospital after a check-up.

Then at 9:15 an 18-year-old youth sustained a hip injury and facial cuts in a two-car collision at Wilson and Catherine.

Frank Robbins, 914 Catherine, was undergoing x-rays at press time to determine his exact injuries. Driver of the other car, who was unhurt, was Charles Robertson, 265 Glenairle Drive.

500-LINE COURSE

Cooper Roars to Win In Hillclimb Contest

By RON SUDLOW

About 500 spectators Sunday afternoon watched several thousand dollars of finely-tuned machinery roar up Mount Douglas at Victoria Motor Sports Club's hill climb.

This was the year's first hill climb sanctioned by the Canadian Auto Sports Club in B.C. Winning drivers gained points toward the B.C. regional driving championship.

Fastest time of one minute 1.59/100 seconds up the winding course was recorded by Dave Cooper of Victoria in a bright red TVR Granura.

Record for the 9/10 of a mile course which rises 700 feet is 57.5 seconds.

Cooper's time was just enough to edge out Dr. Norm Nichol of Victoria, driving a Corvette Sting Ray, by .37 seconds.

In third place in overall standings was Bob Trickett driving a Triumph TR-3 who set the pace on his first run with a 1:02:59 clocking.

HIT TREES

Trickett lost control of his car before entering a hairpin turn near the top and hit a tree after completing a series of "S" bends on his third run. He escaped with only a cut lip but his car suffered considerable front-end damage.

All drivers were required to wear crash helmets and cars were equipped with roll bars and seat belts.

DEAR ABBY...

He's In a Spot!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a college freshman. While I was home for Easter vacation, my mother asked me to take out the 17-year-old daughter of some friends who had just moved to our town. She told me the girl had a great personality and was real sharp. Not having any special girl, I thought, "Why not?" Well, I took this girl out and I practically had to beat her off. She didn't want to go anywhere. All she wanted to do was park. She told me a couple of jokes that were dirtier than those I would tell a fellow. She was so fast I honestly couldn't control her. I never took her out again. My mother asked me what was wrong with her and I said, "Nothing. I have studying to do." I know when I get home this summer I'll have this girl shoved at me again. I can't tell my parents what kind of girl she is. What excuse can I use? Her folks and mine are a constant foursome.

FUTURE FARMER

DEAR FARMER: Tell your parents that as a future farmer you plan to do a lot of digging. But you just don't dig that girl.

DEAR ABBY: My mother doesn't think my big brother and his girl friend should get married in church just because they jumped the gun a little bit and she is going to have a baby. I can't see anything wrong with their getting married in a church as long as she doesn't wear white. What do you think? Thank you.

FOURTEEN

DEAR FOURTEEN: I can't think of a better place for them to be married.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell the mother whose children fight over doing the dishes until she finally chases them out of the kitchen and does them herself that I have solved that problem. I had a son and daughter who were given the chore of doing the supper dishes. They would alternate washing and drying. Oh, they squabbled, too, so I politely told them that since they couldn't get along with each other on the same chore, one was to do them all by himself one night, and the other was to do them all by herself the next night until they learned to work in harmony. It worked.

MRS. E. M. D. IN CLOVIS

DEAR ABBY: When our children used to quarrel while doing dishes together, we allowed the one who did NOT start the quarrel to walk out, leaving the one who started the quarrel to finish the job alone.

FATHER OF FOUR
DEAR FATHER: How did you ever manage that? The granddaddy of all quarrels usually results when one tries to determine WHO started the quarrel in the first place.

Get it off your chest. For a personal, unpublished reply, write to ABBY, Box 3363, Beverly Hills, Calif., 90212. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send one dollar to ABBY, Box 3363, Beverly Hills, Calif., 90212, for Abby's new booklet, "How To Write Letters For All Occasions."

SPADEA DESIGNER PATTERN

NS-404

Balenciaga

design reproduced by Suzy Perette

The Paris fashion news this season includes the coat-dress, the low placed pockets, and the pleats. Here is the "coolest" item, brought to you by Suzy Perette from Balenciaga's Paris collection. The yoke front and patch pockets placed at the new level off-set the two rows of buttons beautifully, and give this design perfect balance. The back interest is typical of Balenciaga in that it has a low placed martingale topping soft pleats. The pleats have a beautiful swing to them and are wonderful in motion. This pattern is carefully cut to keep all the subtle shaping of the original. A perfect coat-dress to see you through this summer and many more, make it in linen like the original and you'll stand out in the crowd. To select your correct size, use Spadea's exclusive ready-to-wear size chart.

Elegant Gowns Highlight Show

Elegant costumes from China, East India, Norway, the Philippines, Holland and Scotland "stole" the show on Saturday at a Global Fashion Show held in Hudson's Bay Douglas Room.

Philippine model, Tita Hong, showed an elegant Maria Clara gown of champagne peau de soie. Its full skirt was enhanced with lace appliques and seed pearls and featured full sweeping train with darker bands of peau de soie extending down the sides and back.

Her evening blouse, called a "camisa" was made of ivory peau cloth hand-embroidered and with the traditional butterfly sleeves. It was completed with a "pain-waylon" that gracefully hugged the shoulders. She carried a matching "jankie" and wore gold filigree jewelry that has been in her family for generations.

Davinder Bain wore a jewel bright sari for late day events. The lustrous-toned silk chiffon was richly embroidered in silver threads. She completed the outfit with evening shoes in color-toned satin beaded in black. "Bindi" on her forehead was the traditional mark of married East Indian women.

ORIENTAL TOUCH

Modelling a yellow silk crepe Chinese sheath for after-five was Betty Lum. Typical for evening wear or for a Chinese wedding, it was generously encrusted with shimmering amber and gold sequins in floral design. The dramatic slits on both sides of the skirt added further Oriental emphasis.

Petite Janice Hodacek was all set for a highland fling in her colorful Nova Scotia tartan kilt. She topped it with a "sassy" jacket in brilliant red velvet, and completed the ensemble with white lace blouse and tartan socks.

A gold sari in swirling silk, for formal occasions, was modelled by Sandy Juhl. It was highlighted with gold jewelled hairpiece and bracelets.

FROM HOLLAND

A field of tulips would have been a perfect setting for Ann Hanje who modelled the traditional Dutch costume complete with wooden shoes.

Colorful neckline of the heavy black wool bodice was accented with embroidered dickerie. The gaily striped skirt was topped with a black apron and highlighted with a floral insert. Her traditional lace bonnet was the "crowning" touch to the costume.

Bessie Tang modelled a four-piece ancient dynasty robe as worn by the Empress of China. Robe was enhanced with fine Chinese needlework and encrusted with solid embroidery of glittering gold metallic threads, depicting the royal emblem—dragons chasing a fiery ball and cloud formations. Sides of the skirt were pleated with floating panels. The fringed cape featured fine needlework and she was crowned with oriental jewels.

Traditional costume of Norway was shown by Eleanor Gilstein. The full black skirt was topped with a hand-embroidered jorkin and matching belt, purse and hat. Her white apron was made of a rare fabric called Hardanger and featured intricate embroidery. Her jewelry was silver filigree.

FROM THE FUNJAR

The global fashions went on to show the East Indian "punjab" evening ensemble, full-length evening coat and matching evening gown of the Philippines, and the traditional wedding gown of China.

Prior to the global showing, summer fashions for 1964 were shown by the Hudson's Bay Company and modelled by Mrs. M. Allum, Mrs. Ted Lum, Mrs. G. Emery, Mrs. M. Kars, Mrs. R. Gorden, Mrs. T. Harrison and Miss Pat Swindell.

Fashions featured sportswear co-ordinates, casual dresses and tailored suits. Highlights were the new long slim sleeves and the shift look for all-occasion. Show was sponsored by the

By PENNY SAVER

Spring begins the bride's season. With weddings come numerous parties and showers.

And, what could be nicer after the memorable occasion is over than to be able to turn back the pages of a book and review your romance from the very beginning.

Book I found in shop this morning is an ideal way to keep such a record.

Pages of this book provide space for noting details of your romance, the announcement of your engagement, party and shower details right through to your wedding day and lists of gifts, guests and honeymoon details. Back of the book has several special pages for wedding pictures.

Price is $7 and book has a washable white cover designed in gold.

Special gold and silver covered guest books are available in shop for $4 and wedding picture albums are priced at $5.

For those of you who will be entertaining brides-to-be, shop also sells a variety of gay hostess napkins and coasters.

One particular set I noticed was patterned with yellow flowers and contained 18 cocktail napkins and coasters. Price was $1. Also at this price was a matching set of place mats and luncheon napkins.

Sets of 20 or 24 coasters and napkins are priced at $2.95. Sets are complete with either six sipper straws or 20 canape picks.

Planning a party for the bride-to-be? Then call Penny at 332-3122 for name and location of this shop.

You Could Be Practicing Yoga and Not Realize It

I recently had a fascinating visit with Moya Devi, director of the Yoga Guild of America, at Carnegie Hall in New York. I have seldom met such a refreshing, vibrant, alive, gay personality. If Moya Devi is an example of what Yoga can do for one, I am all for it!

Miss Moya is an American of Peruvian extraction who practically grew up with Yoga. Both her mother and father, who travelled extensively, were exposed to this ancient science at an early age. Being a westerner who has been actively associated with Hindu Yogi's, she knows both the eastern and western methods of learning.

I have an entirely new idea of Yoga and what it really is since my talk with Moya Devi. Miss Moya said, "Most people associate Yoga with those who have given up the world and gone to caves or jungles in search of God. Some even think Yoga is yogurt, a food, or Yogi Berra, who is a baseball player."

"Others consider the real practitioners of Yoga to be those who sit on beds of nails, eat glass or torture their bodies. Nothing could be further from the truth!"

I did not think that Yoga was a food or a baseball player, but I must admit that I did not realize that, in its simpler forms, it is so applicable to the daily lives of most men and women.

Miss Moya explained that Yoga really means to yoke or join. For instance, a man who is highly engrossed in his work can be said to be in a state of Yoga, and most persons, without realizing it, have assumed some of the postures of Yoga. They just haven't followed through with the rest of the fundamentals of this physical approach to learn the secrets of health and spiritual understanding.

Moya Devi instructs people of all ages. One of her pupils is 92 years old and many of them began to learn at middle age and later. This practice must be rejuvenating. Age is not mentioned in Yoga until one is over 100 years old and Lorna Standish, a descendant of Miles Standish, is still doing headstands and is 95 years old.

The complicated exercises can be done only under the guidance of a teacher, but most people are capable of achieving some of the simpler ones. All types of people can do these, lay people or even a person who is crippled.

For a day or so I am going to bring you a few of these simple exercises and a bit more intriguing information about Yoga.

B.C.'s French Canadians 'Most Poorly Organized'

Over 1,000,000 French Canadians live outside Quebec. This was stressed by Dr. Gerold Moreau, professor of French at the University of Victoria, when he spoke to the University Women's Club of Victoria.

There are 66,000 in our own province and, although the group is the most poorly organized, it still exists as a group with its own schools, church parishes, credit unions and a theatre, La Troupe Moliere, to preserve it as an ethnic group.

Dr. Moreau attributed the B.C. group's credit unions to the French Canadians' conviction that they cannot survive as an ethnic group without a strong economy of their own.

In Quebec, this conviction has led to the development of steel finishing mills on the shores of the St. Lawrence, development of other industries to prevent raw products leaving the province and strong emphasis on the development of insurance companies and other financial structures.

The speaker also emphasized that Quebec contributed twice as much in grants to the arts as any other province and called the establish-

MRS. WOOLISON A COUNCILLOR

Mrs. H. L. Woolison, Victoria, was named one of 10 councillors chosen at an executive meeting following the 51st annual meeting of Provincial Council in Victoria, last week. Names of the other nine councillors are:

Mrs. H. S. Coulter, Vancouver; Mrs. G. F. Seldon and Mrs. L. J. Smith of West Vancouver; Mrs. L. E. Arbuthnot, Nanaimo; Mrs. F. K. Parker, Ganges; Mrs. H. M. Johnson, Chilliwack; Mrs. A. P. Adlard, Kimberley; Mrs. C. J. Dabner, Trail, and Mrs. W. E. Tamboline, Ladner.

Semi-annual meeting of the chapter will be held in the Villa Motor Hotel at Burnaby in October.

ment of a ministry of cultural affairs in 1961 "an important development." One of the ministry's functions is the preservation of French Canadian architecture and restoration of old buildings and monuments.

Dr. Moreau felt that the 20th century had triggered the greatest impetus to French Canadian culture, with most of this coming from French language networks in radio and television.

He described the Theatre du Nouveau Monde "as comparable with the best in Paris," concentrating on French theatre with plays by Moliere, Marivaux and Beaumarchais but also producing plays by Chekhov, Pirandello, Tennessee Williams and others.

"As yet," said the speaker, "there are no signs of a typical Canadian theatre although there are pioneers such as Gratien Gelinas."

Dr. Moreau described the standard of French Canadian literature as "excellent, with a swing from the milieu of rural life to that of the cities."

The pure classical French, spoken by announcers on French Canadian networks, was improving the speaking habits of the people although patois could still be heard in the outlying districts, he reported.

The speaker touched on another explosion in Quebec—that of song writing—and attributed it to the "sheer exuberance" of the French Canadians.

Dr. Moreau was introduced by Mrs. William Rodney and thanked by Mrs. A. B. Sanderson.

Beverly Gandy Wears Gown of French Brocade

A classic floor-length gown of fine embossed French brocade was worn by Beverly May Gandy, Saturday evening, when she exchanged marriage vows with Peter John Ivatts. Gown was elegantly styled with a sculptured bodice and full skirt that swept back into a soft train from a self-fabric bow at waistline. Sleeves ended in lily points. Her face-framing chapel-length veil of soft nylon tulle misted from a coronet of orange blossoms. "Something old" was a crescent-shaped pearl brooch belonging to a family friend. She carried a prayer book topped with white roses and stephanotis.

Identical gowns of rose brocade and self-fabric pill box headpieces, trimmed with veiling, were choice of maid of honor, Miss Patricia Thompson, bridesmatron, Mrs. William Gandy and bridesmaid, Miss Eleanor Sweetnam.

All carried bouquets of pink and white carnations.

Gordon Whiting was best man and guests were ushered to pews marked with white ribbon and pink carnations by Bill

Gandy, brother of the bride, and Darrel Smith.

A three-tier wedding cake, made by the bride's mother, centred the head table at a reception which followed in Holyrood House. The cake was topped with white roses and surrounded by white tulle and roses. Silver vases of pink carnations and white candles in silver candelabra completed the decor. Tiny pink roses, carnations and pink candles decorated the guest tables.

The toast was proposed by Leonard Harman.

As her going-away outfit, the bride chose a dressmaker suit in muted mint green tones with white hat and gloves and champagne accessories. Her corsage was of talisman roses.

UN Role In Congo Nears Ends

By MAX HARRELSON
UNITED NATIONS (AP) —
The approaching withdrawal of the United Nations military force from the Congo is viewed here with both relief and misgivings.

The world organization is getting rid of a costly and often controversial mission that has come close to wrecking the UN financially. But many UN diplomats express doubts about the ability of the shaky former Belgian territory to maintain order without outside military forces.

These doubts are increasing as preparations are begun to ward liquidation of the massive four-year UN operation, scheduled for completion by June 30.
No official has suggested publicly that the UN military operation be extended. This could be done only by a special session of the General Assembly and there is no talk of that.

By the end of June the remaining 4,200 UN troops will leave the Congo. The United Nations will continue to be represented by 1,150 civilian advisers and 400 Nigerian police.

During the peak year of 1961
the UN military force totalled 21,000. The cost that year exceeded $100,000,000. Altogether the United Nations has spent more than $300,000,000 in the Congo since its first intervention in July, 1960.

FACES OPPOSITION

To many of those connected with the operation, results have been disappointing. Many of the Congo's own troops still place tribal loyalty above national loyalty. The government faces armed tribal opposition in several provinces, and possible outside interference.

U.S. Undersecretary W. Averell Harriman has expressed concern because the Soviet Union, Red China and Czechoslovakia have opened embassies at Brazzaville, in the former French Congo just across the river from the territory of the Leopoldville government, which has expelled the Communists.

There also is concern over a possible emergence of the defeated forces of Moise Tshombe, ousted president of Katanga province, for a new effort against the Leopoldville government.

Some diplomats fear the government of Premier Cyrille Adoula will be in trouble the minute UN forces pull out.
Adoula already has plenty of political problems without any armed revolt from the inside or attack from the outside. His political backing never has been solid.

The UN officer - in - charge, Max H. Dorsinville of Haiti, has one remaining job—to supervise withdrawal of UN forces.

The UN civilian operations will continue in the hands of Bibiano F. Osorio-Tafall of Mexico. He will be the top UN man in the Congo after June 30.

SUIT DISMISSED

Plaintiff 'Looking For Trouble'

An action for damages against Victoria Elks Club and its manager, Douglas Smythe, was dismissed by Chief Justice
J. O. Wilson in Victoria Supreme Court Friday afternoon.

Adrian G. Benning, a machinist, of 3240 Richmond Road, claimed $2,066 special damages and unstated damages from the Elks Club and Mr. Smythe. He alleged he was assaulted on the club premises in the early hours of
Nov. 10, 1962.

Mr. Benning stated that,
after a party at the club, Mr.
Smythe "intentionally and forcibly" impelled him against a wall, kicked him in the ribs and broke his hip.

'ACCIDENTAL'
Dismissing the action, Chief Justice Wilson found that Mr.
Benning was "quarrelsome and aggressive and looking for trouble" and the injuries he sustained were accidental.

"I think it probable that Smythe had had too much to drink, too, but all the provocation proceeded from the plaintiff," the chief justice said.

In the witness box, Mr.
Smythe denied pushing Mr.
Benning against the wall. He said Mr. Benning fell and "I fell on top of him."

Witnesses said the incident occurred some time after 2 a.m. on Nov. 10, 1962, following a dinner dance held at the Elks Club to celebrate the opening of its new billiard room.

LONDON (AP)—Two more soccer stars, accused of accepting bribes to throw league games, were suspended by their clubs today pending inquiries.

A third team, English Fourth Division Lincoln City, called in the police to investigate charges against one of its men.

These were the latest moves in the bribery scandal which has rocked British soccer in the last eight days. The Sunday newspaper The People has named nine players who, it was alleged, took part fixing games to help in big betting coups. The players suspended were Dick Beattie of St. Mirren, and wing half Ron Howells

Asia Coups 'Nourished' By U.S.

MOSCOW (AP)—The government newspaper Izvestia tonight indirectly blamed the United States for right-wing attempt to overthrow the coalition government in Laos.

"The bacillus of military coups in Southeast Asia," said Izvestia, "finds their nourishment in the policy of the United States."

The newspaper claimed the right-wing manoeuvres were made possible by the "foreign political atmosphere which is thickening over Laos as a result of the sharpening of the situation in Southeast Asia in general."

Izvestia added:

"Laos is a neighbor of South Viet Nam and everything that is going on in the latter influences both the domestic and foreign position of Laos, especially in view of the aggressive policy of the United States in South Viet Nam."

But nowhere did Izvestia say outright that the United States was directly backing the right-wing officers who attempted to overthrow the government Sunday.

WOODCOCK ... to lodge protest

Farris Bid Rejected

TORONTO (CP)—Mr. Justice Dalton Wells of the Ontario Supreme Court rejected today a defence motion for a directed verdict of acquittal at the perjury trial of Ralph K. Farris, president of Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company.

Defence counsel Joseph Sedgwick immediately announced he will call no evidence for the defence. The 10-day hearings were adjourned until Wednesday for address to the jury.

NICOSIA—A helicopter carrying Lt.-Col. Andrew Woodcock, commander of the Van Doos, both of which was fired upon today by a Turkish-Cypriot while it was flying over St. Hilarion Castle in the Kyrenia Pass area north of Nicosia.

Woodcock, commander of the Royal 22nd Regiment — the French-speaking Van Doos — which makes up most of the Canadian UN peace-keeping force in Cyprus, was a passenger aboard the helicopter. He said he saw a Turkish-Cypriot aiming and firing at the helicopter from a range of about 300 yards.

The colonel said the helicopter was clearly marked with UN markings and that he would lodge a strong protest with the Turkish-Cypriot authorities over the incident.

This was the second time Turkish-Cypriots have opened fire on Canadians in less than a week.

Two Turkish-Cypriot shepherds were killed today by Greek-Cypriot national guardsmen between the Greek village of Vouno and the Turkish village of Hamid Mandres, four miles north of Nicosia.

Canadian troops rushed to the scene to prevent the trouble spreading.

Meanwhile, UN mediator Sakari Tuomioja renewed talks with Cypriot leaders following an agreement giving UN troops sole responsibility for keeping the peace around Nicosia's Ledra Palace Hotel.

Negroes, Whites Sit In Others' Parlors

CHICAGO (AP)—In 112 cities across the United States Sunday, thousands of Negro and white families took a quietly dramatic first step in improving race relations.

They sat down in each others' parlors and talked as they would to neighbors.

Over coffee and cake, they looked at pictures of each others' children.

Negroes told how hard it was to explain to a son why he might not be able to get the kind of job he wanted. White parents told of the bewildering tasks of teaching a child he must not hate, no matter what his playmates say.

The occasion was the first national home visit day which took place north and south in a list of U.S. cities that reads like a list of racial trouble spots: Birmingham, Ala.; Chicago, Baltimore, Cleveland, Little Rock, New York City.

Sponsors say close to 100,000 persons for the first time shared a living room with a member of another race.

Laos Does Flip-Flop

By Reuters News Agency

Laotian neutralist Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma, ousted in a rightist army coup, flew to the royal capital of Luang Prabang today to see King Savang Vatthana.

Radio Vientiane said the king asked Souvanna to remain premier after the army group seized power in the administrative capital of Vientiane Sunday.

Souvanna was accompanied by his right-wing vice-premier and finance minister, Gen. Phoumi Nosavan.

The radio said the king also agreed to grant an audience to the coup leaders led by Gen. Kouprasith Abhay.

They were reported to have asked Souvanna to head a new government after first ousting him in the dawn coup.

Laotian sources in Bangkok, Thailand, said the new government would consist of rightists and neutralists. The pro-Communist faction of the former Souvanna coalition would be excluded.

Diplomatic sources in Saigon, South Viet Nam, confirmed Souvanna had been released and was considering a request to resume leadership of the nation.

Meanwhile, Laos was reported calm in the wake of the night coup. But the situation in the war-torn Southeast Asian kingdom remained confused.

The Laotian sources in Bangkok said if Souvanna refused to head a new government, Phoumi Nosavan, uncle of Gen. Kouprasith, was the most likely candidate for the prime ministership.

Phoumi, in the past strongly pro-Western, was prime minister of Laos several years ago.

Vientiane radio said the reasons for the coup were that Souvanna had failed to solve the economic, political and military problems of the country.

Compromise Set On Pension Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—A major increase in the provinces' share of personal income taxes, worth approximately $60,000,000 next year and double that in 1966, was announced today by Prime Minister Pearson in the Commons.

He also announced that the federal and Quebec governments have reached a compromise on their two retirement pension plans under which a uniform plan across Canada would provide pensions of up to $104 monthly.

The twin proposals were contained in a letter sent to the premiers last Thursday and tabled by Mr. Pearson in the House as he began a major statement on federal-provincial relations.

The pension proposals were submitted for the "comment" of the premiers. However, indications from several premiers are that the compromise will be widely accepted.

The changes proposed in the federal government's Canada Pension Plan had been widely anticipated for several days. The surprise in the announcement was Mr. Pearson's statement that the central government is prepared to give the provinces a major increase in the share of personal income taxes.

TO MEET NEEDS

He said this is being done to meet their "priority" needs, especially for education.

At present, the federal government provides taxing room for the provinces through an abatement of 18 per cent of personal income taxes — a share scheduled to rise to 19 per cent in 1965 and 20 per cent in 1966.

Mr. Pearson's letter said the scale of abatements his

B.C. Gains Millions In New Plan

Premier W. A. C. Bennett said today the new federal pension plan will unlock up to $500,000,000 worth of investment capital for B.C. over a period of years.

He hailed the compromise proposal announced today by Prime Minister Pearson.

"Now it looks as if the arrangement will be a success," he said.

"Instead of having two or three plans we'll have one plan."

Mr. Bennett said that the new federal provincial plan for sharing revenue from income tax will give B.C. more than $15,000,000 by the end of 1966.

The provinces will get an extra 2 per cent of the income tax revenue next year and another 2 per cent in 1966.

The premier said this will give B.C. at least an extra $5,000,000 next year and an additional $19,000,000 in 1966.

government will propose to Parliament "is equivalent to an additional abatement of two per cent commencing in January, 1965, and a further two per cent commencing in January, 1966, in addition to the increases at those dates already provided in our law."

In effect, this would mean the provinces will have available

Gang Robs Grocery Starts 3-Alarm Fire

VANCOUVER (CP)—A store-keeper has blamed a three-man armed gang for setting a fire that burned out his grocery and two other stores early today.

More than 50 firemen with rigs battled for four hours to halt the blaze threatening the south side of a block on Kingsway.

Crowds of spectators flocked to watch the spectacular three-alarm blaze, fed by a ruptured gas pipe that was not turned off for some time.

Benny Lee said the gang entered his market, beat him, and robbed him of $4,300. He claimed police did not believe him, although they told reporters they were investigating the matter.

The gang's leader, waving a revolver, told Lee he would be blown to pieces unless he moved back to Chinatown, Lee said.

Lee was accused of cut-price selling. His office was ransacked, his display cases smashed, and bleach was poured on the goods, he said.

The men forced him to the basement carrying his locked cash register. They tried unsuccessfully to smash it open.

He was punched when he tried to escape, Lee said.

Lee said they piled wooden boxes and crates on the floor and stairs, covered them in inflammable liquids and when he tried again to get out he was brought down. He next remembered waking up with the basement full of smoke and scrambling to the street.

RESTING in hospital after his adventure dangling from a balloon 3,000 feet up, Danny Nowell, 11, suffered only a chafed left hand and shock. See story Page 11. (AP Wirephoto.)

Copper Spree Wildest Ever

By IAN MACKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Stop the market, I want to get off—or is it on?
This was the question on the lips of investors and brokers alike following the wildest week of trading in the history of Canadian stock markets.

WEEK IN BUSINESS

Economy Hustling In U.S.

By ROGER LANE

NEW YORK (AP)—A rich copper strike, glowing business profit reports and new feats by the hustling auto industry sparked the fast-stepping U.S. economy last week.

Climbs in the gross national product, non-farm jobs and construction spending in recent periods reinforced general optimism.

President Johnson announced the GNP, which measures the over-all output of goods and services, rose to an annual rate of $608,500,000,000 in the first quarter, up $8,500,000,000 from the preceding quarter.

The accompanying job gains, he said, showed "real progress in cutting down unemployment" at a rate now of 5.4 per cent.

The president coupled his appraisal of progress in the economy with word he was bearing down heavily to dispel a menace to its continuation, the threat of a country wide railway strike.

STEEL LEVELS OFF

Steel production, climbing steadily since the first of the year, levelled off on a very high plane, an annual output rate of 128,000,000 tons, and retail sales dipped one per cent in March to $21,100,000,000. Neither was regarded as a very disturbing development.

The auto picture, long lustrous, was brightened by a weekly production high for 1964, and record sales in the first 10 days of April.

The early April dealer sales mark, four per cent ahead of a year ago and eclipsing the comparable 1955 performance, was achieved despite dips in retail purchases of Chevrolets, top-volume General Motors line, and in Ford's comparatively low-volume Lincoln-Mercury Division products.

Over-all, GM was five per cent ahead of a year ago and Chrysler 9½ per cent on a much smaller base.

A rapidly swelling flow of earnings reports on the January-March quarter was clogged with statements of profit gains. Aluminum Co. of America said profits were up 15 per cent. International Business Machine showed a 50 per cent gain, Monsanto Chemical a rise of more than 85 per cent, General Telephone and Telegraph a jump of about 15 per cent.

Bethlehem Steel Co., second largest producer, said its figures, still being compiled, would reflect a nine per cent increase in operations. Du Pont, chemical industry leader, said it expected to improve on last year's record first quarter.

Mission to Study Japanese Market

VANCOUVER (CP)—A nine-man Canadian trade mission left Friday for a two-week tour of Japan to study the Japanese market for oilseeds.

The delegation, comprising top executives of Canadian grain companies and pools, will explore existing opportunities for current and long-term sales of Canadian oilseeds to Japan and Japanese market preferences.

In 1963 Japan was the major market for Canadian rapeseed and the second largest for flaxseed and mustardseed. Greater market potential is indicated this year.

Itinerary for the tour was arranged by the Canadian trade commissioners in Japan.

The long-rumored strike by Texas Gulf Sulphur Co. in Kidd Township near Timmins was confirmed Thursday and Canadians went on the maddest speculative spree anyone had ever seen.

The volume on the Toronto Stock Exchange Thursday reached a record 16,659,000 shares, only to be totally eclipsed Friday when 28,704,206 shares changed hands—a record not only for Canada, but for North America.

The speculative boom had been in progress for two weeks before Texas Gulf disclosed it had made a "major discovery" on its zinc-copper-silver property 10 miles north of the Timmins airport.

Penny mines with property within 15 miles of the strike shot skywards on the stock market until floor traders just stared at each other and muttered "unbelievable."

"The whole thing is completely illogical," said one broker, who pointed to the phenomenal rise of one issue on the Canadian Exchange in Montreal following an announcement that the company was trying to buy property near Texas Gulf.

But this didn't deter investors—a Toronto brokerage house said housewives and one-time investors they hadn't heard from for years were trying to get into the act.

He said he could see "no reason for alarm" over the large volume of shares trading in speculative issues—but added that new and unsophisticated investors were "taking a very real risk in venturing into the speculative market."

Mr. Graham said—and many brokers emphasized the point—that while some investors would make money, "a great many more must certainly be prepared to lose their money."

On the Toronto Exchange, PCE Explorations Ltd. was the heavy trader on the week with a turnover of 7,042,220 shares. The issue reached $1.28 Friday before closing at $1.02, a gain of 55 cents.

However, Central Porcupine Mines Ltd. was the eye catcher Friday when it traded 5,522,400 shares, up 11 cents to 19 cents.

INDUSTRIALS ADVANCE

One facet that three brokers for a loop was the fact that industrialists continued to advance strongly. The industrial and composite indexes in Montreal closed Friday at record levels and in Toronto they reached their peaks at 2 p.m. at the height of the speculative trading—in fact the penny market might have been a red herring the way the stocks of several major companies were rising.

Webb and Knapp Admit Losing Control to U.K.

MONTREAL (CP)—The annual report of Webb and Knapp (Canada) Ltd., says the company has lost control temporarily of Trizec Corp., which controls the Place Ville Marie skyscraper development in downtown Montreal.

The loss resulted from the company's need for cash to meet operating and capital requirements. Trizec controls shopping centres in Burnaby, B.C., Toronto and Halifax as well as Place Ville Marie.

OBLIGATION DELAYED

The report says Eagle Star Insurance Co., and Second-Order Garden Property Development Co., both British firms associated with Webb and Knapp (Canada) in Trizec, agreed to postpone the Canadian company's obligation to purchase certain Place Ville Marie debentures.

The debentures amount to $7,569,618 from the project's 7½ per cent sinking fund. The Webb and Knapp-(Canada) obligation was postponed until September, 1965.

REDUCE LIABILITY

In return Webb and Knapp (Canada) has agreed to reduce a contingent liability from the Place Ville Marie Corp. to $2,000,000 from $2,500,000 and allowed the two associate companies to purchase an additional 800,000 Trizec shares for $1,000,000.

The report says this involved "a temporary loss of control" of Trizec's board of directors. But it says Webb and Knapp (Canada) will be allowed to purchase 400,000 of these shares and regain its lost seats on the board if it meets the deadline on the deferred debenture purchases.

Italians Seeking Export Markets

By LESLIE MILLIN

A social and economic revolution has given Italians a thirst for foreign-produced luxury goods, says Italy's ambassador to Canada.

This has given Italy an overall trade deficit, but the country is determined to increase exports rather than cut imports, says Carlo de Ferraris Salzano.

He was in Victoria Friday to promote a trade promotion program starting here next month in conjunction with a department store.

The ambassador stressed that Italy has liberalized her trading and has no intention of tightening up.

He also said Britain will inevitably enter the European Common Market, and that Italy is preparing for such a move.

"We know it will happen," he said.

The ambassador said Italy is not concerned over the trade imbalance between her and Canada—$76,000,000 worth of Canadian imports last year, compared with $55,000,000 worth of Italian exports.

"It does not really worry us because we have an expanding economy, and we need your raw materials, pulp and equipment," he said.

Since 1953, he said, Italy has completely liberalized her trade. "We have no tariff that can be called a protectionist tariff," he said.

In consequence, Italian manufacturers have had to modernize their processes and seek new markets.

"We will not introduce protectionist tariffs," he said, "but will always try rather to increase our exports."

"We don't want to fight or reduce your exports to Italy."

The ambassador said Italy has no controllable exchange rate for currency.

"We don't want to go back to that. We have a very open economy," he said.

"We want to defend the stability of our currency. Devaluation has only a very temporary benefit."

Italy's traditional unemployment problem has now been pared down to the point where only 2.5 per cent of the labor force is unemployed—"almost normal in an industrial economy," he said.

Asked about Italy's strong Communist party, he said: "Italy has had a strong Communist party for 20 years, and we have been handling them for 20 years."

"It's a good guess to say they will succeed less in the future than they have so far, and will have fewer chances to take over the government."

Ex-Prisoners 'Satisfactory'

VANCOUVER (CP)—More than 300 men with criminal records have been employed by B.C. Electric and B.C. Hydro in the last 12 years and have proved satisfactory, says Ralph Purves, special assistant for B.C. Hydro staff services.

He told the B.C. Corrections Institute Saturday:

"Applicants are told they should reveal any criminal record they have and it will not necessarily prejudice their chances for consideration."

Mr. Purves said an increasing number of employers would give consideration to former inmates, but many lack employable skills.

"I feel industry should do everything it can to recognize the problems and assume its share of responsibility," he said. "A man not at work is a burden to the taxpayers."

"The men employed proved satisfactory."

The convention ended Saturday.

Copper Boom Windfall For Magazine

NEW YORK (UPI)—Curtis Publishing Co. today released further details about its big timber holdings near the site of Texas Gulf Sulphur's Ontario copper and silver strike.

M. J. Culligan, chairman and president of Curtis, said the magazine publisher has a three-year exploration agreement with Texas Gulf covering a portion of 46,600 acres purchased in 1945 by Curtis. The company owns a total of 88,000 acres in the Timmins area of Ontario.

At the end of three years, Culligan said, Texas Gulf has the option to extract minerals from a maximum of 1,920 acres under terms which he said are "exceptionally fair and equitable."

STOCK SOARED

The disclosure last Friday that Curtis has property adjacent to the Gulf properties sent the common stock of Curtis soaring on the New York Stock Exchange.

So heavy was the flood of buy orders that trading in Curtis stock was halted about a half an hour before closing.

The stock rose 2½ to 11 on Friday. Today it did not open until around 1 p.m. at 12, up 2 on a block of 120,000 shares at the same price.

The ore discovery of Texas Gulf is in Kidd township near Timmins. The actual drilling site is approximately 300 feet from the property line of Curtis Publishing's holdings, the Curtis statement said.

Rumors Start New Fever

The Toronto stock ticker was running 45 minutes late this afternoon as speculative gambling fever continued to grip investors following rumors of a second strike by Texas Gulf near its original strike in the Timmins area.

Some of the penny stocks edged lower, but a wide range of issues remained on the plus side.

Trading in speculative mines on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges was extremely active, but did not match Friday's sizzling pace. Volume by mid-afternoon was 2,803,400 shares, while at the same time Friday it was 4,821,800 shares.

Features on Wall Street were scrambled prices and heavily traded issues. Trade was moderate.

AT TORONTO Comstock Lead was ahead 17 cents to 67 cents, Windfall 14 cents to 64 cents, Gulf Lead four cents to 26 cents and Jalex six cents to 40 cents.

Industrials were ahead, Abitibi and Consolidated Paper both up ¼, Alberta Gas ½ and B.C. Forest, Bank of Nova Scotia, Imperial Bank of Commerce and Algoma ½ each.

Great Lakes Paper declined ½ and Dominion Foundries

GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Prices moved narrowly, and most were fractionally lower near the close of dull trade today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Flax action was moderate with prices lower, influenced by appearance of United States flax on world markets. Trade reports indicated sales had been made at near Winnipeg prices. There was moderate shipping support on declines in the oats and barley market. Reports indicated a quantity of Canadian malting barley had been shipped to Buffalo, N.Y., and Milwaukee.

Kats Hit Weak Spots; Rout JBAA in Cup Final

Vancouver Kats never leave any doubt of their main objective when they step out on a rugby pitch. They play to win. They have the talent, the brains and the aggressive spirit to do just that, as proved by their record of sharing or winning outright the provincial first division championship for eight straight years.

Kats proved it all over again at Macdonald Park Saturday by Victoria's James Bay Athletic Association, the club which held them to a draw in last year's B.C. final for the Rounsfell Cup.

Fortunate to hold a 6-0 lead after JBAA had held a slight territorial edge in the opening half, the Kats never missed a trick in the second session as they exploited weak spots left by injuries to the Oarsmen.

They didn't ease up an iota as they pounded at a short-handed JBAA backfield, unleashing some spectacular running to score five unconverted tries and finish with a 21-0 triumph and another B.C. crown.

Kats were just as impressive in the second division provincial final in the same park, blanking Victoria Navy 15-0 on a pair of tries by Bruce Aldridge and one by Ian Bowland, plus two penalty goals by Roger Krenquist.

Two Receive Life Terms From Hockey

MONTREAL (CP) — Directors of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association suspended a coach and player from hockey for life Saturday and issued limited suspensions to two other team officials and six other players.

Suspended for life were coach Guy Boucher of the Chomedey, Que., Junior "B" team and Julien Dupont of the Trois-Rivieres, Que., Reds. Both suspensions were for attacks on officials during the past season.

Boucher's offence followed a game Feb. 25 when he is said to have attacked referee Andre Langevin of Montreal.

QAHA suspensions are recognized by all organized hockey leagues, amateur and professional, in North America.

Dupont was charged with having set upon linesman Derek Jensen of Trois-Rivieres during a game there.

By The Way

Vancouver Island is a place of consummate beauty—but sometimes we take it for granted because its glories are so complete.

To reawaken appreciation for the visual pleasures they afford, The Times offers some views that can be enjoyed without a far journey—and some that are off the beaten track. Have you a favorite?

Those who travel the Gorge know Craigflower School standing prominently at the roadside. Since 1885 (it's the oldest school of those preserved in western Canada) the old lady has seemed to admonish passers-by, "Shoulders back, swing the arms..."

How many have really observed her—spared a glance for her historic simplicity, the geometric precision of her many-paned windows, her regal, no-nonsense, purposeful stance which survived the suns and storms of a century or more.

Pause when you pass and she'll return the kindness with an emanating charm that stirs the spirit like a scent of lavender.

VICTORIA, B.C., MONDAY, APRIL 20, 1964—PAGE 17

Topics of the Day

Two naval fire-service trucks of HMC Dockyard responded to a fire alarm signal from Work Point Barracks Sunday at 11:05 a.m.

Duty fire captain James Bryan said the alarm was caused by sensitive wiring in a fire box which resulted in a mechanical "short."

The wiring was repaired and the all-clear signal was sounded at 11:30 a.m. No other damage was caused.

One of Canada's best known Roman Catholic priests, Father David Bauer, CSB, will speak in Victoria tonight.

The coach of Canada's Olympic hockey team and professor-theologian at St. Mark's College in Vancouver, Fr. Bauer will address the Sacred Heart Parent-Teacher group in the Lake Hill Women's Institute, Quadra and Palmer, at 8 p.m. His topic: "Why a Catholic School?"

He will be accompanied by Mrs. Bagge and Lars Arno, press attache at the Royal Swedish Embassy, Ottawa.

Inspections are being carried out by members of Victoria Optimist Club and Victoria Cycling Club in connection with Optimist International Bicycle Safety Week which began today and ends Saturday.

Bikes will be checked Tuesday from 6 to 8 p.m. at Oaklands, George Jay, Victoria West, South Park and Sir James Douglas schools.

Odds Are 137,043 to One In Irish Sweep, Says Cleric

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Times Church Editor

The people of Ireland contribute only 4 per cent of the money put into Irish sweepstakes, according to Rev. F. E. H. James, DD, Irish-born minister of Metropolitan United Church.

In a sermon Sunday night, Dr. James said Canadians and Americans pay about $14 for every $1 risked by the Irish sweepstakes.

"That $14 is multiplied by the large sums spent on fraudulent tickets," he added.

Dr. James said when a man buys a ticket in the Irish sweepstakes the odds against him are 137,043 to one. When he backs a horse in any race the odds against him average out at about 75,000 to one.

He said the United Church of Canada is opposed to gambling because it is based on "personal gain at the expense of others," and any benefits to charity are secondary to that motive.

"Today about 60,000,000 people in Canada and the United States are gambling regularly in one form or another. Service clubs are involved in it, and not even the Christian church has escaped this hideous infection."

"Christians everywhere are engaging in bingo and other games of chance whose object is personal gain at the expense of others."

"No one has the moral right to exploit the cupidity of our people in the name of charity. Gambling is a sin against society. It is destructive of home life, it impoverishes many of its followers and it distorts the true spirit of adventure which ennobles the human race."

A youth who, his lawyer said, thought he was being "a public benefactor" got a $100 fine in city court today.

Mitchell Swain, 18, of 616 Esquimalt Road, drove on Craigflower Road April 12 while he was disqualified from driving for a hit-and-run conviction.

Defence counsel Alan Bigelow said Swain was driving the car for a drunken friend and thought he was a "public benefactor" in keeping the drunk off the road.

Magistrate William Ostler said this was no excuse.

A benefit show Sunday for the flood-stricken Alberni valley garnered $151.84, said organizer Hew Gwynne today.

About 400 people attended the 20-act show in the Atlas Theatre.

The money was turned over to Alderman Robert Baird, city council's relief fund chairman.

"The whole two and a half show only cost one dollar to put on," said Mr. Gwynne.

Victoria Cymrodorion (Welsh) Society will visit Vancouver May 3 to take part in the Gymanfa Ganu Welsh song festival in the Cambrian Hall.

A chartered bus will leave the C and C Taxi stand, 906 Government, at 10 a.m. A few seats are available and interested persons should contact Mrs. Flo Quinn at GR 9-3902.

Old Age Pensioners Group No. 55 will meet Friday at 2 p.m. in St. Marks Hall, corner of Boleskine and Tennyson Streets.

The Victoria Boys Band will hold a tag day Saturday, May 16, to help raise funds to buy uniforms and instruments.

For the third consecutive year Lucky Lager Breweries Limited in Victoria have been declared a winner in the National Safety Contest of the Brewers Association of Canada.

The Victoria plant recorded only one lost-time injury in two years (1962 and 1963), to win a top award Category C across Canada (classification is by size and output of the plants).

British Columbia brewing plants are presently celebrating a reduction in accident frequency rates of 60 per cent on the rate in 1948, when the brewers' national safety program began. And the 1963 rate for the province is slightly better than that recorded nationally.

Convenor of tag day for the Cerebral Palsy Auxiliary, Mrs. Jeannie Southwell reported today total intake on Saturday amounted to $1,500.

WHERE HAVE YOU BEEN ALL DAY? I'VE BEEN MEDITATING...

I DON'T THINK IT HELPED YOU... YOU DON'T LOOK ANY DIFFERENT...

Last Offer Made Say Shipbuilders

Companies involved in the Burrard Dry Dock, as saying in part:

"Every effort made during the past 8½ months of negotiations to provide continuing employment in the shipyards has been fruitless."

The competitive state of the shipbuilding industry in B.C. at this time precludes the companies from making any further offers. Our employees must recognize that their return to work can only be accomplished by a settlement which will allow the companies to secure business to keep them employed."

The strike began Feb. 5 after the workers turned down a conciliation board recommendation of 28 cents an hour over a three-year contract.

Their original demand was 40 cents an hour over two years; since reduced to 30 cents over two years.

The latest proposal from William Sands, B.C.'s deputy labor minister, was for 36 cents over three years.

About 2,000 men in 22 unions are involved.

Yard Strike Threatens Hourly Runs

B.C. Government ferry officials fear the shipyard strike will wreck their plans for hourly service between Nanaimo and Horseshoe Bay this summer.

Hourly service was to start June 15.

But the B.C. Ferry Authority needs two new ships to do it.

Both of them are now lying unfinished at Victoria Machinery Depot because of the strike.

The Queen of Nanaimo will take only seven days to finish, a ferry spokesman said today.

The Queen of New Westminster has not yet been launched. A crash building program could get both ships in service this summer, but this would need a swift strike settlement.

The ferry official said he does not know what will happen if the strike continues.

BIDS DUE

Meanwhile tenders for a new ferry to run between northern Vancouver Island and Prince Rupert are due on Wednesday.

The ferry authority also planned to call tenders soon for a new Gulf Islands ferry.

Both of these ships were to be in service next year.

The strike has been under way since Feb. 5 and a backlog of work at coast shipyards may force delay in the new ships.

The mainland ferries will go on a semi-summer schedule Friday.

There will be three ships on each of the Swartz Bay-Tsawassen and Nanaimo-Horseshoe Bay routes.

The service will have an extra sailing every second hour starting at 10 a.m. and ending at 10 p.m. at the Vancouver terminals.

At the moment it is still planned to put the Swartz Bay service on an hourly basis with four ships June 15.

But Nanaimo may have to fall back to two-hour service.

This is because the Sechtel Queen—formerly the Chinook—will be needed for other routes.

Power Engineers Meet

Victoria branch, Institute of Power Engineers will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the B.C. Hydro building Flame Room.

Films on corrosion will be shown.

Prospect Lake Water Petition Awaits Names

A local improvement petition for extension of city water to Prospect Lake residents is at Saanich municipal hall waiting for signatures.

It is the latest step in the municipality's attempt to solve the polluted water problem at the lake, a source of argument for nearly a year.

The Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health warned residents of the area last year that Prospect Lake water is not sufficiently clean for domestic use.

A report made last fall by Saanich chief inspector D. W. R. Smith disclosed that wells in the area are also polluted.

MORE CONTROL

Mr. Smith recommended that city water be piped out for residents, and that sewage disposal should be more rigorously controlled.

His report—and the health board's warning—have been hotly argued by residents of the area, some of whom maintain the lake water is fit to drink.

Saanich has decided that extension of water mains to Prospect Lake must be done as a local improvement.

TWO-THIRDS SIGN

This means two-thirds of the affected residents must sign the petition now in municipal clerk Gordon Hayward's office.

Saanich will bear $109,000 of the total cost of installation, with home-owners paying the balance over 20 years.

Boy Hit in Mouth By Air Gun Shot

A 15-year-old boy walking along Lansdowne near East-dawn Saturday evening was shot in the mouth by a pellet from an air gun.

William Hawkins, 2915 Fifth, had to go to Royal Jubilee Hospital to have the small lead shot removed from his tongue. He was later released.

The shot was fired by someone who was likely standing on Uplands golf course, police said.

Style Beats Stunts On Danish Gym Team

Mid-air somersaults, high bar balancing and hand stands. They are all so simple any child could do them, but it takes a team of Danish gymnasts to prove it.

On May 7 a team of 12 boys and 12 girls selected from various gymnastics in Denmark will perform at the Memorial Arena.

They are not professionals trained to dazzle the public with acrobatic stunts. Instead their grace, posture and naturalness of movement will provide an evening of ballet-like entertainment.

Hoops, rhythm sticks and balls are all essential in modern Danish rhythmic gymnastics. It is perfect style that counts more than complicated acrobatics.

WORLD FAIR

The Danish Gym Team, which has been on tour in North America since last summer, will make its final performance for this year at the New York World's Fair in July.

In Victoria the performance is being sponsored by the Canadian Association of Physical Education, Health and Recreation.

Duncan Men, Boy Gone For 30 Hours

Two Duncan men and a boy have been missing in an open boat in Georgia Strait for more than 30 hours.

Occupants are Bud Plunet, 1051 Chaster Ave., Ken Klingenberg, 1068 Holmes St., and Klingenberg's 12-year-old son Bruce.

They left Lantzville about 5 a.m. Sunday for a fishing trip in the Nanose Bay area aboard a 14-foot blue and white fiberglass boat.

An RCAF Albatross aircraft was put in the air at daybreak today when the party was first reported missing.

RULED OUT

By noon, it had sighted nothing other than some floating boat gear that has been tentatively ruled out as wreckage for the missing boat.

A Coast Guard cutter, Racer, was due to reach the area about noon. The Albatross had to quit the search for about an hour to refuel.

RCMP found the men's car and trailer near where they are presumed to have launched their boat at Lantzville.

They were known to have intended to go fishing around Maude Island and Gray Rock, near Nanose Harbor.

HAD LIFE JACKETS

Their boat was equipped with life jackets, paddles and a 40-h.p. outboard motor, according to RCAF.

Weather in Georgia Strait overnight was clear but windy, and winds in the area are reported picking up today.

A heavy sea was reported running overnight.

Two Injured In Crashes At Intersections

Two persons were injured in separate traffic accidents in Victoria this morning.

The first occurred at Vancouver and Pembroke when a car driven by Bak Gee Chong, Port Alberni, was in collision with one driven by James Bryce, 49, of 1272 Pembroke.

Mr. Bryce was admitted to Royal Jubilee Hospital in a state of shock and with a head injury. Mr. Chong was discharged from St. Joseph's Hospital after a check-up.

Then at 9:15 an 18-year-old youth sustained a hip injury and facial cuts in a two-car collision at Wilson and Catherine.

Frank Robbins, 914 Catherine, was undergoing x-rays at press time to determine his exact injuries. Driver of the other car, who was unhurt, was Charles Robertson, 268 Glenairlie Drive.

Impaired Driver Jailed for Month

One impaired driver was sent to jail this morning for a month and another was fined $300 in city court.

Alfred George, Maple Bay Road, Duncan, was sent to jail when Magistrate William Ostler was told this was his second conviction for impaired driving.

He was picked up on Esquimalt Road after police saw his car weaving.

500 LINE COURSE

Cooper Roars to Win In Hillclimb Contest

By RON SUDLOW

About 500 spectators Sunday afternoon watched several thousand dollars of finely-tuned machinery roar up Mount Douglas at Victoria Motor Sports Club's hill climb.

This was the year's first hill climb sanctioned by the Canadian Auto Sports Club in B.C. Winning drivers gained points toward the B.C. regional driving championship.

Fastest time of one minute 15.9/100 seconds up the winding course was recorded by Dave Cooper of Victoria in a bright red TVR Granta.

Record for the 9/10 of a mile course which rises 700 feet is 57.5 seconds.

Cooper's time was just enough to edge out Dr. Norm Nichol of Victoria, driving a Corvette Sting Ray, by .37 seconds.

In third place in overall standings was Bob Trickett driving a Triumph TR-3 who set the pace on his first run with a 1:02.59 clocking.

HIT TREE

Trickett lost control of his car before entering a hairpin turn near the top and hit a tree after completing a series of "S" bends on his third run.

He escaped with only a cut lip but his car suffered considerable front-end damage.

All drivers were required to wear crash helmets and cars were equipped with roll bars and seat belts.

It is the latest step in the municipality's attempt to solve the polluted water problem at the lake, a source of argument for nearly a year.

The Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health warned residents of the area last year that Prospect Lake water is not sufficiently clean for domestic use.

A report made last fall by Saanich chief inspector D. W. R. Smith disclosed that wells in the area are also polluted.

MORE CONTROL

Mr. Smith recommended that city water be piped out for residents, and that sewage disposal should be more rigorously controlled.

His report—and the health board's warning—have been hotly argued by residents of the area, some of whom maintain the lake water is fit to drink.

Saanich has decided that extension of water mains to Prospect Lake must be done as a local improvement.

TWO-THIRDS SIGN

This means two-thirds of the affected residents must sign the petition now in municipal clerk Gordon Hayward's office.

Saanich will bear $100,000 of the $230,000 total cost of installation, with home-owners paying the balance over 20 years.

Boy Hit in Mouth By Air Gun Shot

A 15-year-old boy walking along Lansdowne near Eastdowne Saturday evening was shot in the mouth by a pellet from an air gun.

William Hawkins, 2915 Fifth, had to go to Royal Jubilee Hospital to have the small lead shot removed from his tongue. He was later released.

The shot was fired by someone who was likely standing on Uplands golf course, police said.

Duncan Men, Boy Gone For 30 Hours

Two Duncan men and a boy have been missing in an open boat in Georgia Strait for more than 30 hours.

Occupants are Bud Plunet, 1051 Chaster Ave., Ken Klingenberg, 1068 Holmes St., and Klingenberg's 12-year-old son Bruce.

They left Lantzville about 5 a.m. Sunday for a fishing trip in the Nanos Bay area aboard a 14-foot blue and white fiberglass boat.

An RCAF Albatross aircraft was put in the air at daybreak today when the party was missing.

RULED OUT

By noon, it had sighted nothing other than some floating boat gear that has been tentatively ruled out as wreckage for the missing boat.

A Coast Guard cutter, Racer, was due to reach the area about noon. The Albatross had to quit the search for about an hour to refuel.

RCMP found the men's car and trailer near where they are presumed to have launched their boat at Lantzville.

They were known to have intended to go fishing around Maude Island and Gray Rock, near Nanos Harbor.

HAD LIFE JACKETS

Their boat was equipped with life jackets, paddles and a 40-h.p. outboard motor, according to RCAF.

Weather in Georgia Strait overnight was clear but windy, and winds in the area are reported picking up today.

A heavy sea was reported running overnight.

Two Injured In Crashes At Intersections

Two persons were injured in separate traffic accidents in Victoria this morning.

The first occurred at Vancouver and Pembroke when a car driven by Bak Gee Chong, Port Alberni, was in collision with one driven by James Bryce, 49, of 1272 Pembroke.

Mr. Bryce was admitted to Royal Jubilee Hospital in a state of shock and with a head injury. Mr. Chong was discharged from St. Joseph's Hospital after a check-up.

Then at 9:15 an 18-year-old youth sustained a hip injury and facial cuts in a two-car collision at Wilson and Catherine.

Frank Robbins, 914 Catherine, was undergoing x-rays at press time to determine his exact injuries. Driver of the other car, who was unhurt, was Charles Robertson, 288 Glenairlie Drive.

Major Blaze Just Missed At Paint Firm

A conflagration was narrowly avoided in a downtown paint store at the weekend where a fire burned itself out unnoticed by anyone.

Firemen were called by workers at Ames Paint Co., 712 Humboldt, Sunday afternoon. They had discovered a fire in the rear of the premises that was extinguished after causing considerable smoke damage through the building.

The workers thought firemen put it out but firemen had never attended. An investigation showed the fire started by spontaneous combustion and then went out when all the oxygen in the air was used up by the flames.

Fire Chief John Abbott said if a window in the store had been blown out the whole place would have gone. He said the room in which the fire started had an unusually thick plate glass window and this probably made the difference.

Impaired Driver Jailed for Month

One impaired driver was sent to jail this morning for a month and another was fined $300 in city court.

Alfred George, Maple Bay Road, Duncan, was sent to jail when Magistrate William Ostler was told this was his second conviction for impaired driving.

He was picked up on Esquimalt Road after police saw his car weaving.

500 LINE COURSE

Cooper Roars to Win In Hillclimb Contest

By RON SUDLOW

About 500 spectators Sunday afternoon watched several thousand dollars of finely-tuned machinery roar up Mount Douglas at Victoria Motor Sports Club's hill climb.

This was the year's first hill climb sanctioned by the Canadian Auto Sports Club in B.C. Winning drivers gained points toward the B.C. regional driving championship.

Fastest time of one minute 15.9/100 seconds on the winding course was recorded by Dave Cooper of Victoria in a bright red TVR Granura.

Record for the 9/10 of a mile course which rises 700 feet is 57.5 seconds.

Cooper's time was just enough to edge out Dr. Norm Nichol of Victoria, driving a Corvette Sting Ray, by .37 seconds.

In third place in overall standings was Bob Trickett driving a Triumph TR-3 who set the pace on his first run with a 1:02.59 clocking.

HIT TREE

Trickett lost control of his car before entering a hairpin turn near the top and hit a tree after completing a series of "S" bends on his third run.

He escaped with only a cut lip but his car suffered considerable front-end damage.

All drivers were required to wear crash helmets and cars were equipped with roll bars and seat belts.

Odds Are 137,043 to One In Irish Sweep, Says Cleric

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Times Church Editor

The people of Ireland contribute only 4 per cent of the money put into Irish sweepstakes, according to Rev. F. E. H. James, DD, Irish-born minister of Metropolitan United Church.

In a sermon Sunday night, Dr. James said Canadians and Americans pay about $14 for every $1 risked by the Irish sweepstakes.

"That $14 is multiplied by the large sums spent on fraudulent tickets," he added.

Dr. James said when a man buys a ticket in the Irish sweepstakes the odds against him are 137,043 to one. When he backs a horse in any race the odds against him average out at about 75,000 to one.

He said the United Church of Canada is opposed to gambling because it is based on "personal gain at the expense of others," and any benefits to charity are secondary to that motive.

"Today about 60,000,000 people in Canada and the United States are gambling regularly in one form or another. Service clubs are involved in it, and not even the Christian church has escaped this hideous infection."

"Christians everywhere are engaging in bingo and other games of chance whose object is personal gain at the expense of others."

"No one has the moral right to exploit the cupidity of our people in the name of charity. Gambling is a sin against society. It is destructive of home life, it impoverishes many of its followers and it distorts the true spirit of adventure which ennobles the human race."

PENSION CHANGES DETAILED

Hectic Rush Of Buying

TORONTO (CP)—Officials of the Toronto Stock Exchange said today they made a mistake in totalling the volume of shares traded during the current hectic rush of speculative buying.

The mistake involved about 5,000,000 shares. The exchange announced at 11 a.m. 15,500,000 shares had been traded during the first hour—a record for the period, if it had been correct.

Actually, only 10,577,000 shares changed hands—still a sizable figure, but short of the record 11,142,000 shares traded in the first hour Friday when the full force of the speculative craze hit.

By 3 p.m. the exchange said, a total of 26,601,000 shares had been traded.

Meanwhile, exchange officials were trying to track down the cause of the first mistake, which threw reporting of the trading volume off for most of the day.

TORONTO (CP)—Speculators continue to ignore warnings from the experts today and sent the Toronto stock market flying toward another day's record trading.

Despite a warning from Lt. Gen. Howard Graham, president of the Toronto stock exchange, that enthusiasm for speculative mining stocks could be turning to hysteria, more than 26,000,000 shares changed hands by 3 p.m.

The mad pace of trading started with the 10 a.m. opening and continued unabated.

GAMBLING FEVER

"The public's got the gambling fever and what will happen is anyone's guess," said one trader on the floor of the exchange. Some traders were hardly able to speak, their voices hoarse from shouting orders.

"This is worse than Friday was ever thought to be," another said.

"The volume is fantastic, but eventually the cool light of reason will win out," said one veteran analyst. "Only one speculator in 10 will win."

Brokerage houses and the exchange were straining to the limit of their resources to try to meet the unprecedented rush.

MAJOR STRIKE

The rush for shares of speculative mining companies was sparked by a major zinc, copper and silver strike by Texas Gulf Sulphur Company near Timmins.

One rumor swept Toronto's financial district that the company had made another big find within a few miles of the first success, but the report was quickly discounted by an official at Texas Gulf's head office in New York.

A broker said, however, the rumor undoubtedly was a factor in the frantic excitement being felt by speculators.

Friday's final volume was 28,704,000 shares, by far the busiest day on any North American stock exchange.

QUEEN NAMES THIRD SON PRINCE EDWARD

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen's recently-born fourth child will be named Edward Anthony Richard Louis, it was announced today.

He will be known as Prince Edward.

Christening will be in the private chapel in Windsor Castle on the afternoon of May 2.

The names of the baby were registered by Prince Philip.

The baby was born at Buckingham Palace March 10, weighing five pounds, seven ounces.

Edward, an old English name, means "rich guard."

Canadian Cyprus CO Fired On in Helicopter

NICOSIA—A helicopter carrying Lt. Col. Andrew Woodcock, commander of the Van Doos, was fired upon today by a Turkish-Cypriot while it was flying over St. Hilarion Castle in the Kyrenia Pass area north of Nicosia.

Woodcock, commander of the Royal 22nd Regiment—the French-speaking Van Doos—which makes up most of the Canadian UN peace-keeping force in Cyprus, was a passenger aboard the helicopter. He said he saw a Turkish-Cypriot aiming and firing at the helicopter from a range of about 300 yards.

The colonel said the helicopter was clearly marked with UN markings and that he would lodge a strong protest with the Turkish-Cypriot authorities over the incident.

This was the second time the colonel said the helicopter was clearly marked with UN markings and that he would lodge a strong protest with the Turkish-Cypriot authorities over the incident.

Farris Bid Rejected

TORONTO (CP)—Mr. Justice Dalton Wells of the Ontario Supreme Court rejected today a defence motion for a directed verdict of acquittal at the perjury trial of Ralph K. Farris, president of Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company.

Defence counsel Joseph Sedgwick immediately announced he will call no evidence for the defence. The 10-day hearings were adjourned until Wednesday for address to the jury.

Uniform Terms To All Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson today disclosed details of the proposed new Canada pension plan.

In tabling letters sent to provincial premiers last week, Mr. Pearson told the Commons it embodied features of both the Quebec and previous national plans.

It was hammered out in two weeks of discussions aimed at a single plan with uniform terms that could apply to all Canadians.

Most of the other provinces have indicated the new scheme is acceptable.

LEFT FREE

The proposal left it free to any province so desiring to administer the plan on its own. But even in provinces where the central government administered the plan, the full amount of reserve funds built up by the plan would be available for investment in provincial securities—divided among provinces in ratio to pension contributions from each province.

Contribution rates would be an average three per cent—1½ per cent each from employer and employee—on earnings up to $5,000 a year.

This average would be achieved by exempting earnings up to $800 a year and applying a rate of 3½ per cent on earnings above that level up to the $5,000 maximum.

SET MINIMUMS

Coverage would be compulsory for employees earning over $600 a year and for self-employed people earning over $1,000 a year.

Under the former federal plan a 2-per-cent contribution rate would have applied to the first $4,500 of earnings. Under the former Quebec plan, an average 3-per-cent rate would have been levied on earnings between $1,000 and $6,000.

The pension received would be 25 per cent of earnings up to $5,000 a year—a pension of Continued on Page 6

RAIL TALKS MAKE GAINS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House said today federal mediators have reported to President Johnson "some definite gains" in emergency rail-ways bargaining talks aimed at averting a United States-wide strike.

Compromise Set On New Scheme

OTTAWA (CP)—A major increase in the provinces' share of personal income taxes, worth approximately $60,000,000 next year and double that in 1966, was announced today by Prime Minister Pearson in the Commons.

He also announced that the federal and Quebec governments have reached a compromise on their two retirement pension plans under which a uniform plan across Canada would provide pensions of up to $104 monthly.

The twin proposals were contained in a letter sent to the premiers, last Thursday and tabled by Mr. Pearson in the House as he began a major statement on federal-provincial relations.

The pension proposals were submitted for the "comment" of the premiers. However, indications from several premiers are that the compromise will be widely accepted.

The changes proposed in federal government's Canada Pension Plan had been widely anticipated for several days. The surprise in the announcement was Mr. Pearson's statement that the central government is prepared to give the provinces a major increase in the share of personal income taxes.

TO MEET NEEDS

He said this is being done to meet their "priority" needs, especially for education.

At present, the federal government provides taxing room for the provinces through an abatement of 18 per cent of personal income taxes—a share scheduled to rise to 19 per cent in 1965 and 20 per cent in 1966.

Mr. Pearson's letter said the scale of abatements his government will propose to Parliament "is equivalent to an additional abatement of two per cent commencing in January, 1965, and a further two per cent commencing in January, 1966, in addition to the increases at those dates already provided in our law."

In effect, this would mean the provinces will have available Continued on Page 2

SOCCER SCANDAL SPREADS IN U.K.

LONDON (AP)—Two more soccer stars, accused of accepting bribes to throw league games, were suspended by their clubs today pending inquiries.

A third team, English Fourth Division Lincoln City, called in the police to investigate charges against one of its men.

These were the latest moves in the bribery scandal which has rocked British soccer in the last eight days. The Sunday newspaper The People has named nine players who, it was alleged, took part in fixing games to help in big betting coups. The players suspended were Dick Beattie of St. Mirren, and wing half Ron Howells

Nuclear Output Slashed

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union announced today a reduction of nuclear explosive materials.

President Johnson disclosed the plans of the United States for the "substantial reduction" in the output of enriched uranium to be carried out over a four-year period.

At the same time, in Moscow, Premier Khrushchev made the announcement for the Soviet Union.

The announcement by the Tass news agency said Khrushchev stated:

"An opportunity for improving mutual understanding with other states on the necessity of avoiding a nuclear war had now arisen in connection with the question of the manufacture of fissionable materials for nuclear weapons."

Johnson said that together with other reductions, the new cut means "an over-all decrease in the production of plutonium by 20 per cent and of enriched uranium by 40 per cent."

REDUCE TENSION

"We reduce tension while maintaining all necessary power," the president stated.

Tass said Khrushchev's action was in line with U.S. and British decision in the same field.

The Soviet leader's statement noted Johnson and Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home had notified him they also would issue statements on "practical measures in the field of reducing the manufacture of fissionable materials for military purposes."

U.S. officials said there was no deal involved between the two countries in the joint action to reduce nuclear production, but a case of completely separate but parallel actions.

PENSIONS

$1,250 a year or just over $104 a month.

The proposal envisages upward adjustments in the earnings maximums in line with increases in average earnings, and adjustments in pension benefits in line with rising living costs up to a maximum two-per-cent increase in any year.

The maximum pension is about midway between the $75 maximum under the formal federal plan and $125 under the Quebec plan.

The maximum pension would be reached after 10 years, instead of the 20 years proposed by Quebec.

Pensions would be paid on retirement from age 65, but between ages 65 and 70 would be reduced if a recipient's income exceeded a certain level.

Four Injured In Auto Crash

NANAIMO—A Victoria man and his North Vancouver woman passenger are in serious condition today after a three-car crash south of here Sunday.

John Sykes, whose address is not known, was forced off the road by two other cars, one of them driven by Mrs. Florence Van der Haeghe, 4095 Quadra, Victoria.

Mrs. H. McCinnon, of North Vancouver, is also in serious condition in Nanaimo Regional Hospital today.

Her husband and Mrs. Sykes, also in the car when it flipped and rolled—are in fair condition in hospital.

Police said the accident was caused when a car driven by Mrs. Van der Haeghe pulled out to pass a car driven by William Heathcote, of Nanaimo.

Mr. Heathcote pulled out to pass the Sykes car at the same time.

He forced Mrs. Van der Haeghe's car to the opposite gravel shoulder, where it spun out of control, then shot back across the highway in front of the Sykes car, forcing it off the road.

Her car ended up in a field. Mrs. Van der Haeghe suffered only minor injuries.

Mr. Heathcote was not injured. The Sykes car and Van der Haeghe car were both extensively damaged, said RCMP.

There was no damage to the Heathcote car.

Car Cavalcade To Bamfield Set for May 24

BAMFIELD—A cavalcade by the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island will visit here May 24 in a campaign to draw attention to the area's recreational potential.

The party will include a total of 250 members in 50 cars.

The chambers' main objective is to view the Cape Beale peninsula, west of Bamfield and facing the open Pacific and Barkley Sound.

The chambers want the B.C. government to establish the peninsula as a provincial park.

The proposed park involves more than 12 square miles, and takes in two lakes, several beaches and miles of waterfront.

It would be the first provincial marine park of any size and would open to the public a little-known wild and beautiful coast.

142 MILES

R. Bruce Scott, an official of the Bamfield Chamber, said the distance from Victoria to Cape Beale via the Cowichan-Nitinat Lakes is 142 miles against 180 miles via Port Alberni.

"The park would be within easy reach of South Vancouver Island," he said.

The B.C. parks branch has already reserved several large blocks of land in the Cape Beale peninsula, but has not yet been able to set the entire area aside for park purposes.

THREE RESERVES

Gang Robs Grocery, Starts 3-Alarm Fire

VANCOUVER (CP) — A store-blown to pieces unless he moved back to Chinatown, Lee said.

Lee was accused of cut-price selling. His office was ransacked, his display cases smashed, and bleach was poured on the goods, he said.

The men forced him to the basement carrying his locked cash register. They tried unsuccessfully to smash it open.

He was punched when he tried to escape, Lee said.

Lee said they piled wooden boxes and crates on the floor and stairs, covered them in inflammable liquids and when he tried again to get out he was brought down. He next remembered waking up with the basement full of smoke and scrambling to the street.

Negroes, Whites Sit In Others' Parlors

CHICAGO (AP) — In 112 cities across the United States Sunday, thousands of Negro and white families took a quietly dramatic first step in improving race relations.

They sat down in each others' parlors and talked as they would to neighbors.

Over coffee and cake, they looked at pictures of each others' children.

Negroes told how hard it was to explain to a son why he might not be able to get the kind of job he wanted. White parents told of the bewildering tasks of teaching a child he must not hate, no matter what his playmates say.

The occasion was the first national home visit day which took place north and south in a list of U.S. cities that reads

Ex-Prisoners 'Satisfactory'

VANCOUVER (CP) — More than 200 men with criminal records have been employed by B.C. Electric and B.C. Hydro in the last 12 years and have proved satisfactory, says Ralph Purves, special assistant for B.C. Hydro staff services.

He told the B.C. Corrections Institute Saturday:

"Applicants are told they should reveal any criminal record they have and it will not necessarily prejudice their chances for consideration."

Mr. Purves said an increasing number of employers would give consideration to former inmates, but many lack employable skills. "I feel industry should do everything it can to recognize the problems and assume its share of responsibility," he said. "A man at work is a burden to the taxpayers."

"The men employed proved satisfactory."

The convention ended Saturday.

Copper Boom Windfall For Magazine

NEW YORK (UPI) — Curtis Publishing Co. today released further details about its big timber holdings near the site of Texas Gulf Sulphur's Ontario copper and silver strike.

M. J. Culligan, chairman and president of Curtis, said the magazine publisher has a three-year exploration agreement with Texas Gulf covering a portion of 46,000 acres purchased in 1945 by Curtis. The company owns a total of 98,000 acres in the Timmins area of Ontario.

At the end of three years, Culligan said, Texas Gulf has the option to extract minerals from a maximum of 1,920 acres under terms which he said are "exceptionally fair and equitable."

STOCK SOARED

The disclosure last Friday that Curtis has property adjacent to the Gulf properties sent the common stock of Curtis soaring on the New York Stock Exchange. So heavy was the flood of buy orders that trading in Curtis stock was halted about a half an hour before closing.

The stock rose 2 1/2 to 11 on Friday. Today it did not open until around 1 p.m. at 12, up 2 on a block of 10,000 shares followed by a block of 10,000 shares at the same price.

Rumors Start New Fever

The Toronto stock ticker ran about 45 minutes late this afternoon as speculative gambling fever continued to grip investors following rumors of a second strike by American Leduc near its original strike in the Timmins area.

Share volume for the day was 28,512,000, as compared with Friday's all-time record 28,704,000.

Some of the penny stocks edged lower, but a wide range of issues remained on the plus side.

Trading in speculative mines on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges was extremely active, but did not match Friday's sizzling pace. Volume by mid-afternoon was 2,803,400 shares, while at the same time Friday it was 4,821,800 shares.

Features on Wall Street were scrambled prices and heavily traded issues. Trade was moderate.

AT TORONTO Comstock

Load was ahead 17 cents to 67 cents, Windfall 14 cents to 64 cents, Gulf Lead four cents to 26 cents and Jalex six cents to 40 cents.

Nature Houses Prove Popular

A project that started in a tent as an experiment has blossomed out to a very tangible and worthwhile part of British Columbia's tourist framework. Back in 1957 the Department of Recreation and Conservation established the province's first Nature House. Now there are three, with plans for more.

Nature House popularity is proof that people are never in too much of a hurry to ignore a glimpse of what goes on with nature. In fact, attendance figures at Shuswap Lake, Manning Park and three Nature Houses has surprised officialdom.

Nature Houses are not intended to replace field observations. They do, though, give the layman a clear picture of nature's wisdom. This, together with talks by a park naturalist, never fails to whet the appetite for more knowledge concerning the outdoors.

Fishermen's Wives: Here's How to Clean

Basic equipment needed for cleaning a fish:
A fish, any kind.
Any flat solid surface.
A sharp knife.
Method: First grip the fish firmly by the head, and make a cut straight down, just behind the gills.
Maintaining your hold on the head, turn the blade so that it is flat against the side of the spine. Using a slight sawing motion, slice straight back along the spine.
Properly made, the cut will be completed with the severing of the last bit of meat near the tail fin.
Now flip the slab of meat over, skin down, and hold it steady by placing your finger tips on the rib cage. The ribs will be or should be, the only bones remaining, and are removed by slicing downward just under them.
The entire rib cage should come off almost paper-thin, with just enough meat to hold the bones together in a single strip.
Now all that remains is removal of the skin. Starting at the tail, slice as close to the skin as possible. Once the cut is started you should be able to get grip on the skin at the tail. Hold the knife in a stationary position, and press against the flat hard surface. Draw back on the slab, off comes the skin, and your fish tips on the rib cage. The ribs? Easy, isn't it?

Severe Poison Ivy Calls for Doctor

If you come in contact with poison ivy, scrub skin thoroughly and immediately with a naphtha soap, allowing the soap to remain on the skin several minutes before rinsing.

Once a rash has appeared, avoid applying water, oily ointments or alcoholic solutions. Calamine lotion relieves the itching, but in severe cases you should see a doctor.

Eight out of 10 people are susceptible and, contrary to popular belief, repeated exposure does not help you build up a tolerance to the plant. It only makes you more sensitive. Even natural immunity has been known to disappear in time.

C. N. WOODWARD RIDES CUTTING HORSE BONITA TIVIO

Cutting Horses Head for U.K.

An airborne invasion of England from Western Canada will take off from Montreal early in May. The invaders—members of the Canadian Cutting Horse Association—have as their objective, country-wide demonstration of one of Western Canada's fastest paced sports.

The cutting horse, developed from the famous quarter-horse—named for its ability to outpace almost incredible exercises of speed, control and agility.

Gently riding a tier from a herd of cattle, the horse opens the steer's natural instinct to seek the protection of the herd and the battle is on. Anyone who has ever seen a western movie will understand how quickly a cornered cow can about-face, pivot and roll.

Decision to perform in England was made after Prince Philip, on his last Canadian visit, saw and rode a cutting horse for the first time. His enthusiasm led to an invitation to the Canadians from the Royal Windsor Horse Show. When the news got Vanderhoof... Endako... Tintagel... Burns Lake... Klwaga... These are just a sample of the names you'll en- counter as you drive along the still uncompleted road.

STOP AND TALK

But stop awhile and talk with the friendly people who have chosen Highway 16 locality as their home and they will relate how, in days gone by, some of the history's first white men in the area plodded through marshland and clambered over mountains and defied the unknown to establish trading posts and leave their language for po- ternity to read.

Stay at their hotels and auto courts and lodges, savor their way of life, and it will perhaps occur to you that travel in strange places is indeed re- warding.

Secondary roads off the main highway push outwards across the lake-studded terrain.

OR NO END

Off these, small trails hardly noticeable among the great stands of timber might end at some remote cabin by a lake, or they may have no end at all. Just connections for the hardy human beings whose livelihood comes from trapping or pro- specting.

If you were with a guide... the wise things to do... you could spend a month here on foot and cover only a minute portion of the area. You would, though, emerge back into civil- ization with the feeling that you had been visiting a different world.

This is the place where Can- ada geese come honking over the land in spring en route to the northern nesting grounds. Fall sees their returning with new families, ready for the eastern flight that will take them across the nation. Several other species of migratory birds do the same, combining in one grand spec- tacle of color and feather.

Babine Lake 'Scorpion'

Babine Lake is one of the largest in British Columbia. Forged something like a scorpion, it nevertheless pos- sesses no onibus character- istics.

Babine, just one of many in the area, dresses up every day and every night for the business of living. No two pieces of apparel are the same. Raincoat is by turns jewelled, glistening, silvered, shimmering or just plain an- imated satin and silk of ex- quisite manufacture.

Highway Between Nelson and Ballfour

Inner Tube Makes Tent Windproof

Ever a mild gust of wind against the sail-like canvas side of a tent exerts a tre- mendous force on tent and rigging.

And when a heavy gust or a real blow hits, something usually gives, the stakes pull out of the ground. But if the stakes don't pull free, the side of the tent may rip and this is not only inconvenient but expensive.

One answer to this problem is to get an old inner tube and cut it sectionally to make loops that are 4-inch wide, like big rubber bands.

The one end of the loop to the guy line tape on the tent, then tie the other end to the guy line.

You now have, in effect, classic guy lines and no mat- ter how hard the wind blows, the tent can give with the blow.

This set-up also eliminates getting up in the middle of the night to replace pulled-up stakes and problems that arise from guy lines shrink- ing in wet weather.

GREAT MANY IDEAL LOCATIONS

Canoeing New Sport for B.C.

The first feeling the canoeist gets in British Columbia is one of exploration. For this reason the province is fast becoming one of the world's ideal places for canoeing. Until quite recently canoeing in British Columbia has not been popular.

The topography of the country's mountains cause swift run-offs in the rivers, often making them dangerous. In addition, some of the larger lakes are subject to strong winds, thus confining travel to lake edges. A further hazard comes from various river obstructions.

With all that, and especially since a vigorous highway program has opened up large new tracts of land, British Columbia contains hundreds of lakes where the canoeist may indulge to his fill.

Perhaps the most picturesque of all British Columbia lakes is 297,201-acre Bowron Lake Park east of the Cariboo. Bowron actually consists of lakes in the shape of a rectangle. This is excellent moose country.

Bowron is also unique canoeing territory; perhaps the best in all North America. Atlin, Tagish and Bennett lakes are situated near the B.C.-Yukon boundary. Atlin is one of the province's scenic lakes where fishing for lake trout, pike and grayling is excellent. Canoeists should expect possible delays because of high winds.

Because of high winds, either of two Prince George roads leading north from the Prince Rupert route (the Northern Trails - Provincial Highway), is a comfortable three-day drive from Vancouver. Camping and fishing possibilities are good, with moose hunting in season. Hugen Arm and North Arm are the least travelled parts of the area.

TOW CANOES
Stuart, Trembleur and Takla Lakes take two or three days to reach from Vancouver. Supplies can be purchased at Vanderhoof and a trip started from Stuart Lake. The river between Stuart and Trembleur is best travelled with guides using riverboats to tow the canoes. The country is wild and unsettled, with good fishing but calling for insect repellent until late August.

Tweedsmuir Park is a large circle of lakes and connecting waterways. Canoeing as such in this part of British Columbia should not be undertaken. High winds, the continuous bordering fringe of flooded trees, and great distances demand a sturdy boat with engine.

Crooked River to Peace River, a route that once upon a time was used by explorer, fur-trader and settler, starts from Summit Lake some 30 miles north of Prince George.

It leads northwards down the Peace River to the Peace River, then through the Peace River, down the Parsnip River, Forks on the Peace River.

TO FORT ST. JOHN
By travelling east along the Peace River it is possible to reach Fort St. John on the Alaska Highway. At the Peace River Canyon a 15-mile portage is necessary. Since the road parallels the river with a local farmer for truck transportation makes the portage easy. The McGregor River joins the Fraser River east of the Prince George. About 90 miles of navigable water leads to the Rocky Mountains. Strong currents make use of an outboard motor almost necessary. Near the McGregor leads to absolute wilderness, where the traveller must depend entirely on his own resources.

Canlin and Mahood are two of the larger lakes in the Cariboo. Main turn-off point on Highway 97 is at 100-Mile House. Both lakes provide ample scope for canoeing and camping in a territory where the natural aspect is predominant. Hot weather in the Okanagan holds special attraction mere and Golden are suitable for canoeing. From Golden to Revelstoke the river is extremely hazardous except for the last 45 miles starting at the Downie Creek that can be run in early or late summer.

Below Revelstoke it is possible to canoe to the United States border, if patches of swift-flowing water are anticipated.

CANOE RIVER
Some of the larger lakes on Vancouver Island make for good canoeing. One of them, Spout Lake, is accessible from Alberni by six miles of good road. Four arms give the canoeist large areas to explore.

A canoe can be taken from 2 1/2 miles up the Taylor River at the head of Taylor Arm. The trip can be continued to nearby 24-mile-long Great Central Lake, a picturesque body of water, long and narrow, flanked by steep mountain sides.

Buttle and Comox Lakes in the Courtenay-Campbell River area have excellent mountain scenery and fair fishing to go with it. They are subject to dangerous winds.

Irrigation Real Square

Interior landscapes often contrast arid, unshaded hills with luxuriant green cultivated patches. Their rectangular shapes betraying the presence of irrigation, they lay to match of B.C.'s interior farming.

Ancient Paintings Attraction

Visitors to Sproul Lake Park are the latecomers to a ritual that started back in the labyrinthine of history. Mysterious petroglyphs on rock faces show the spot was much loved by early Indians enamored of the setting.

Situated not far from Alberni and Port Alberni, Sproul Lake Park became part of British Columbia's parks system May 13, 1960. Long before that it was owned by a benevolent person called George Smith whose habit it was to entertain pioneer residents of the Alberni Valley.

Almost 3,000 feet of lake front are available to contemporary users of the park. A large parking system accommodates more than 360 cars. Facilities have also been established to cater to picnickers, campers, boating enthusiasts and water skiers. Children swim in the lake, protected by a heavy log boom. For those who like hiking in the woods, trails have been enlarged.
